Paratroopers Bring Order In The Congo

Battle Muttinous Negro Troops Who Killed 6 Persons

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo. (AP) — Belgian paratroopers went into action in the turbulent Congo Sunday for the first time, battling mutinous Negro troops who killed six Europeans at Elisabethville.

The seasoned regulars restored order in that capital of Katanga Province of the eastern Congo. But Congolese soldiers mutinied in the southern Congo at Luluabourg and besieged white refugees, radio reports said.

The Belgian government ordered in 2,000 troops from Belgium to reinforce the 4,000 or so stationed in the Congo or in the nearby trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi.

The Belgians announced determination to restore order in this Negro nation of 13 million, which became independent of Belgium rule 10 days ago.

Possible UN Intervention

Speculation about possible United Nations intervention arose after U.S. Ambassador Claire Tibbels called in Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.N. undersecretary who is here to offer technical aid to the Congo. Neither would confirm or deny that intervention was discussed. Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko, who also called at the embassy, said he knew nothing about any such possibility.

But it was learned that Timberlake also had conferred at Leopoldville airport with President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba just before calling in Bunche. The two Congo leaders apparently had canceled a flying trip to Elisabethville to discuss the tense situation with foreign diplomats.

While denying knowledge of possible U.N. intervention, Bomboko told reporters his superiors granted him permission Saturday to call on Belgian troops to help preserve order if necessary.

Meanwhile, two U.S. Air Force planes left Brazzaville, across the Congo River from Leopoldville, for Accra, Ghana, with 37 wives and children of Americans in the Congo.

Capital Is Quiet

This capital and trouble spots in the western Congo remained quiet though tense, and the mass flight of whites continued by river boat and by plane.

The Congo government issued a radio appeal to all Congolese troops to maintain order and to cease firing on whites.

Defense Secretary Albert Nyembu said the Force Publique — the Congo's Belgian-trained army — would be put under Congolese command and Belgian officers would be repatriated to Belgium. This would answer a major grievance of the mutinous soldiers.

(The Belgian radio said Victor Lundula, a Negro former sergeant in the new Force Publique commander with the rank of general, but will have Belgian advisers.)

24th Division Said On Alert

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) — A rumor circulated here Sunday that the 24th U.S. Infantry Division, used during the Lebanon crisis two years ago, has been alerted for possible movement to the Congo. A spokesman for the U.S. Army in Europe said he could not comment on the report.

U.S. Air Force headquarters in Wiesbaden, however, said troop transport planes at Rhein-Main Air Base near Frankfurt are on standby alert.

"It's not a full-scale alert and we are not cancelling routine missions but we are sort of standing by in case we are needed," a spokesman said.

Reports circulating at Augsburg headquarters of the 24th, said the division was alerted and all leaves were canceled.

Cyprus Freedom Set For Aug. 16

NICOSIA, Cyprus, (AP) — Cyprus independence is to be proclaimed Aug. 16, an official announcement said Sunday.

The statement said the British governor fixed the date, which is nearly six months after the original target of Feb. 19, after consultations with Archbishop Makarios, the Greek-Cypriot leader and Fazil Kutchuk, the leader of the Turkish Cypriots.

Boy, 7, First To Survive Niagara Plunge

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UPI) — Seven-year-old Roger Woodward sat up in his hospital bed Sunday and ate heartily apparently unaware that he had become a hero as the first person ever to survive an accidental plunge over Niagara Falls.

Roger, who wore a life jacket on a boat ride because he did not know how to swim, was swept 165 feet over the roaring Horseshoe Falls Saturday after the boat capsized in the swift current of the upper Niagara River.

His 17-year old sister, Dianne, narrowly escaped death when a policeman on vacation and another tourist pulled her from the river 25 feet short of the brink.

Missing was James D. Honeycutt, 40, a foreman on the Niagara River project who had taken the two Woodward youngsters for a boatride as a belated birthday present for Dianne, whose birthday was earlier in the week.

As far as doctors at Niagara Falls General Hospital could determine, Roger suffered only a few severe bruises and shock. He was out of shock Sunday and although he was not allowed to leave his bed, he sat up and moved around upon it.

Dianne, suffering from cuts and bruises, was a patient in a hospital in Niagara Falls, N. Y. Boats cruised through the Niagara River gorge below the falls in a search for Honeycutt's body.

New Hurricane In Atlantic

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Abby, packing winds of up to 90 miles per hour, whirled through the Atlantic Sunday about 300 miles southwest of Puerto Rico.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the season's first hurricane was moving west-northwest at about 17 miles per hour and would keep the same direction and speed rate for the next 12 hours.

New hurricane warnings were hoisted for the Dominican Republic and Haiti on the island of Hispaniola. The Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico were already under a hurricane watch.

At 5 p.m. e.s.t., hurricane hunter planes and surface ships reported Abby to be centered near latitude 14.5 north and longitude 68.3 west, or about 325 miles southwest of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The weather bureau said hurricane force winds extended outward 30 miles in the northern semicircle and 75 miles in the southern semicircle.

No change in size or intensity is expected in the next 12 hours, the bureau said.

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — The U.S. consulate's office here reported Sunday about 50 American citizens are among refugees from the Congo who have crossed the border into northern Rhodesia.

Truman Reaffirms Plans To Miss Demo Convention

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman reaffirmed Sunday his decision to stay away from the Democratic national convention.

In a statement telephoned from his home in Independence, Mo., to aides attending the party convocation, Truman said:

"I have been giving considerable thought to the many messages urging me to go to Los Angeles and to take a part in the proceedings of the Democratic convention.

"I must stand by my original decision and the statement I made at the press conference July 2 in Independence.

"Let me say again there is nothing personal about my attitude. But I cannot lend myself to what is happening."

Leftists Dance In Another Treaty Protest

TOKYO (AP) — A crowd of 10,000 leftists snaked through more than an hour in front of the U.S. naval air station at Atsugi Sunday, chanting "Yankee go home" and "Black jets get out of Japan."

The demonstration, first of a series planned by the Communist-led People's Council Against the U.S.-Japan Security Pact, was loud but generally orderly.

No incidents were reported although the zigzagging columns occasionally shoved or brushed against 150 helmeted Japanese police guarding the main entrance of the base, 50 miles southwest of Tokyo. About 200 police were stationed inside the gate and an additional 800 stood by a block away in case of violence.

The demonstrators demanded the removal of American military bases, but their immediate targets were three black-painted U-2 reconnaissance planes stationed at Atsugi. The U-2 is the same type of plane shot down over the Soviet Union May 1. The ill-fated flight caused a furore in Japan and stiffened opposition to ratification of the security treaty. The United States has assured Japan the U-2s based here are only for weather missions.

The crowd marched on the base following a two-hour rally at nearby Yamato. Kozo Minaguchi, council secretary-general, who had predicted a turnout of 50,000, shouted to the demonstrators: "We don't recognize the security treaty and nonrecognition means a struggle to remove American bases from Japan. Let's begin the fight by expelling the spy planes from Atsugi."

Atomic Reactor Ready For Use

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Atomic elements in the Canada-India reactor just completed in Bombay, near Bombay, became critical Sunday morning, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

The reactor, largest in Asia, cost 20 million dollars and was financed under the Colombo Plan by the Canadian government, which bore half the cost. Fueled with natural uranium, it is expected to meet most of India's requirements for radio isotopes and to provide extensive facilities for physics and engineering research.

Hotel Blaze Fatal To Six

BRISTOL, R. I. (AP) — Six persons died Sunday when fire gutted the 156-year-old Colonial Inn in the commercial waterfront area.

Three persons escaped and four others of the 13 known occupants left the three-story brick structure before the fire started about 6 a.m.

The 20-room rooming house-type hotel housed a bar and grill on the ground floor. The victims were: Frances Bottiglieri, 65, who rented the building and ran the hotel; her son Peter, 25; Peggy Tucker, 25; Benjamin Marino, 46; Dominic Alturi, 72; and Antoine Avila, 65.

Bristol, a community of 12,000 about 15 miles southeast of Providence, has only a volunteer fire department. Fire apparatus from nearby Warren helped out.

John McKenzie, 44, one of two rescued by firemen, said: "The sirens woke me up. I opened the door to the hallway and flames were shooting at me. I slammed the door and went back to the window for air."

He crawled out to a ledge from which he was plucked by firemen.

Revolutionary Hero's Plaque Unveiled

HUETTENDORF, Germany (AP) — A bronze plaque commemorating a German-born hero of the American revolutionary war, Johann DeKalb, was unveiled at his birthplace here Sunday. Participating in the ceremony were 180 Americans of German descent, who flew to this tiny Franconian village from the United States.

The group was headed by Prof. Ralph Wood of Lehigh University, Pa. Wood spoke briefly about the great contribution Maj. Gen. DeKalb made toward U.S. independence. DeKalb, born in 1721, was killed in 1780 during the battle of Camden.

Castro III, Does Not Go To Rally

Cuban Minister Has Lung Infection

HAVANA (AP) — Education Minister Armando Hart announced Sunday Prime Minister Fidel Castro would not attend a giant rally called in Havana because of a "slight illness."

Hart said Castro was suffering from a lung infection and had been ordered to rest.

Havana looked like an armed camp in preparation for the rally called by Castro for a fresh attack on the United States.

A groan went up from the crowd of about 100,000 packed in front of the presidential palace when the announcement of Castro's illness was made.

It was the first time veteran newsmen here could recall that Castro had missed a major public function due to an announced illness.

Hart made the announcement 2½ hours after the scheduled start of the rally. There had been no previous indication that Castro would not attend.

"Only Slight Illness"

"Let not the enemies of the revolution be inspired by this," Hart shouted. "It is only a slight illness."

Reading from a medical report he said he was prepared by two army doctors, Hart said Castro first complained of chest pains Friday morning.

The Prime Minister made a TV speech Friday night. He was examined by doctors Saturday morning and a "slight infection" of the left lung was disclosed, Hart said. The doctors recommended complete rest, he added.

The announcement itself cast a pall over the thousands of laughing peasants and workers, many of whom had waited hours to hear Castro.

The rally went on with substitute speakers. The turnout was far less than the 1½ million urged by government leaders to demonstrate support of the revolutionary leader in his political and economic battles with the United States.

It could not be learned immediately whether Castro was in a hospital or was resting at one of his several residences in Havana.

There was no announcement as to who would act as prime minister if Castro is sidelined for a time. Castro's choice as his successor, his younger brother Raul — minister of armed forces — currently is touring Iron Curtain countries.

Other delegations with uncertainty, uncommitted delegates were getting restless.

Dissension reportedly blazed up in the Kentucky delegation over efforts to hold the bulk of it in line for Kennedy's chief rival, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Johnson kept his campaign on the road. So did Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and the volunteer team attempting to get things started for Adlai E. Stevenson.

But things were approaching the desperation stage for this trio. Johnson lieutenants were talking more in terms of holding their own than of any victory sweep. And holding their own wouldn't be enough.

Gov. Herschel Loveless cancelled the Iowa delegation's commitment to support him as a favorite son, once it has done that on the first ballot Wednesday. Loveless told the Iowa delegates "I don't propose that you or I spend our time and effort to be on the side of a loser."

Expect Quick Victory

So, in the midst of a dizzy Sunday whirl of state caucuses and other delegate huddles, it was becoming more and more evident that Kennedy could expect the quick victory at which he has been aiming.

Former President Harry S. Truman made it final that he is boycotting the convention — another signpost pointing to a Kennedy victory. Truman aides at the convention scene released a statement saying Truman stood by his July 2 decision against attending the convention on grounds it is rigged in favor of Kennedy.

Truman's choice is Symington. Kennedy rivals talked hopefully but vaguely of mounting strength. But where it might be coming from was all sort of mysterious.

Hesitating delegates were getting edgy about the possibility of missing a Kennedy bandwagon.

In the Wisconsin and Illinois delegations, along with Pennsylvania, signs were increasing that additional delegates were getting ready to put a shoulder to the wheel for the Massachusetts senator.

Kennedy forces are the most tumultuous and heavily sprinkled with youngsters. They say, Stevenson people seem to be the quietest.

"People forget a man's speech is just his opinion.

"Too many columnists use hindsight instead of foresight.

Has all the Democratic din persuaded him to vote Democratic in November? Boumann, 45, shakes his head. This year he plans to vote for Nixon.

Iowa, Calif., Join Forces With Senator

Dissension Reported In Kentucky Group; Delegates Restless

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson Sunday won the right to get his name put up for the Democratic presidential nomination ahead of his opponents. Alabama voted to yield its No. 1 spot on the roll call to Johnson's Texas.

The Alabama delegates voted 50-4 to let Texas have the first crack at nominations. Johnson had appealed in person for support from the Alabama delegates, in the face of claims of growing support for Sen. John P. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts topped Iowa from a favorite son fence Sunday and all but clinched the Democratic presidential nomination on the eve of the party's national convention.

California, another favorite-son state, was getting ready, too, to load a hefty batch of ballots onto a thundering, crunching Kennedy bandwagon.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown called on Kennedy and told him — but nobody else — what he intended to do at the California caucus Sunday. But with obvious significance the governor reported Kennedy was pleased — and so did the senator. California has 81 votes at the national convention, where 761 are needed to nominate.

Kennedy already had pulled the favorite son of Kansas, Gov. George Docking, aboard his bandwagon. Docking also consulted Kennedy and pronounced him a "shoo-in." Kansas has 21 votes and casts them as a unit.

Others Are Restless

Other delegations with uncertainty, uncommitted delegates were getting restless.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo. (AP) — Belgian paratroopers went into action in the turbulent Congo Sunday for the first time, battling mutinous Negro troops who killed six Europeans at Elisabethville.

The seasoned regulars restored order in that capital of Katanga Province of the eastern Congo. But Congolese soldiers mutinied in the southern Congo at Lufuaburu and besieged white refugees, radio reports said.

The Belgian government ordered in 2,000 troops from Belgium to reinforce the 4,000 or so stationed in the Congo or in the nearby trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi.

The Belgians announced determination to restore order in the Negro nation of 13 million, which became independent of Belgium rule 10 days ago.

Possible UN Intervention
Speculation about possible United Nations intervention arose after U.S. Ambassador Claire Timberlake called in Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.N. undersecretary who is here to offer technical aid to the Congo. The turnout was far less than the 1½ million urged by government leaders to demonstrate support of the revolutionary leader in his political and economic battles with the United States.

It could not be learned immediately whether Castro was in a hospital or was resting at one of his several residences in Havana.

There was no announcement as to who would act as prime minister if Castro is sidelined for a time. Castro's choice as his successor, his younger brother Raul, minister of armed forces—currently is touring Iran, Cuba and other countries.

Troops On Guard
From early morning, olive and green-clad security troops armed with automatic weapons maintained stations on all rooftops overlooking the palace. Other armed patrols were scattered throughout the city.

The unusual security precautions apparently resulted in part from Saturday's machine gun attack on pro-Castro radio and television commentator Jose Pardo Liada. The commentator escaped injury in one of the most open antigovernment incidents here in recent months.

Huge anti-American banners crisscrossed the plaza, most of them strung by the militantly pro-Castro Confederation of Cuban Workers, which officially organized the rally.

Police Round Up
Pickpocket Gang

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles police Sunday broke up a band of Latin American pickpockets working the Democratic convention.

Capt. Joseph P. Stephens said five members of the gang were arrested in the Biltmore Hotel, all with stolen money in their pockets.

Stephens said the gang apparently was a well-schooled and highly-trained group which came to Los Angeles especially to work the convention and the Los Angeles sports events.

Rockefeller declared that the basic mechanism for providing health insurance for the elderly should be "the proven contributory system of social insurance."

The plan recommended by the administration which Rockefeller opposes would be financed by federal and state governments and by a $24-a-year enrollment fee paid by those beneficiaries; not on public relief. It would be available only to persons over 65 who have incomes of $2,500 a year or less ($3,800 in the case of married couples).

Rockefeller in a memorandum submitted Saturday to Chairman Charles H. Percy of the Republican Platform Committee said medical care insurance should be extended to virtually all over the age of 65 "without reference to any test of means."

Informants said the Democratic platform in endorsing the Social Security approach will make no direct reference to the so-called "Forand Bill" which embodies this approach and around which the controversy has centered in Congress.

Churchills Take Mediterranean Cruise

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill and his wife joined shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis here Sunday for another Mediterranean cruise aboard the yacht Christina.

There was no word whether soprano Maria Callas would be aboard too, as she was last year. It was on that cruise, Italian newspapers say, that Onassis and the singer fell in love. Onassis and his wife have since been divorced. Callas and her husband are separated.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Out of all the thousands jammed into the Biltmore Hotel, only two men are clearly above politics at Democratic National Convention headquarters.

Frank Boumann and Art Lee are looking down on it all from a height of 30 feet.

They're painting the ceiling of the hotel mezzanine, the Biltmore's most heavily traveled area.

What's it like — perched eight hours a day on a scaffold 30 feet above a madhouse?

Boumann and Lee view the goings-on with Olympian detachment. And for the most part, the party of the working man hardly notices the two laborers hard at work above them.

Blessed with two of the best seats in the house, Boumann and Lee can see it all: the frantic rush of campaign workers, the backslapping, palm-pressing, neck-tilting and knee squeezing.

Dissension Reported In Kentucky Group; Delegates Restless

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson Sunday won the right to get his name put up for the Democratic presidential nomination ahead of his opponents. Alabama voted to yield its No. 1 spot on the roll call to Johnson's Texas.

The Alabama delegates voted 50-4 to let Texas have the first crack at nominations. Johnson had appealed in person for support from the Alabama delegates, in the face of claims of growing support for Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts toppled Iowa from a favorite son fence Sunday and all but clinched the Democratic presidential nomination on the eve of the party's national convention.

California, another favorite-son state, was getting ready, too, to load a hefty batch of ballots onto a thundering, crunching Kennedy bandwagon.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown called on Kennedy and told him—but nobody else—what he intended to do at the California caucus Sunday. But with obvious significance the governor reported Kennedy was pleased—and so did the senator. California has 81 votes at the national convention, where 761 are needed to nominate.

Kennedy already had pulled the favorite son of Kansas, Gov. George Docking, aboard his bandwagon. Docking also consulted Kennedy and pronounced him a "shoo-in." Kansas has 21 votes and casts them as a unit.

Others Are Restless

Other delegations with uncertain, uncommitted delegates were getting restless.

Dissension reportedly blazed up in the Kentucky delegation over efforts to hold the bulk of it in line for Kennedy's chief rival, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Johnson kept his campaign on the road. So did Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and the volunteer team attempting to get things started for Adlai E. Stevenson.

But things were approaching the desperation stage for this trio.

Johnson lieutenants were talking more in terms of holding their own than of any victory sweep. And holding their own wouldn't be enough.

Gov. Herschel Loveless cancelled the Iowa delegation's commitment to support him as a favorite son, once it has done that on the first ballot Wednesday.

"I don't propose that you or I spend our time and effort to be on the side of a loser."

Expect Quick Victory

So, in the midst of a dizzy Sunday whirl of state caucuses and other delegate huddles, it was becoming more and more evident that Kennedy could expect the quick victory at which he has been aiming.

Former President Harry S. Truman made it final that he is boycotting the convention — another signpost pointing to a Kennedy victory. Truman aides at the convention scene released a statement saying Truman stood by his July 2 decision against attending the convention on grounds it is rigged in favor of Kennedy.

Truman's choice is Symington. Kennedy rivals talked hopefully but vaguely of mounting strength. But where it might be coming from was all sort of mysterious.

Hesitating delegates were getting edgy about the possibility of missing a Kennedy bandwagon.

In the Wisconsin and Illinois delegations, along with Pennsylvania, signs were increasing that additional delegates were getting ready to put a shoulder to the wheel for the Massachusetts senator.

Belgian Men Fought Each Other Trying To Board Plane To Escape From Congo

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Belgian men fought each other to get their wives and children aboard an airliner at Leopoldville and away from Negro soldiers brandishing rifles.

That was the story told Sunday by crewmen of a Belgian Sabena airliner that brought 180 more refugees from the terror of the Congo.

Among the refugees were several women on stretchers in advanced stages of pregnancy and several others suffering severe shock from being raped by Negro soldiers.

Crew members told of the dramatic departure Saturday night from Leopoldville when Congolese soldiers with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets tried to keep refugees from boarding.

Only the deafening roar of the jets' four engines and the confusion made the departure possible, one crewman reported. He said the women and children boarded the plane in "desperate confusion."

The crewman said that when Congolese troops tried to stop the plane's departure a Congo government official, Albert Delvaux, was called in the hope he would be able to control them. The troops would not give in, however, but while he argued with them the refugees managed to clamber aboard.

At Brussels airport the stretchers cases were quickly taken away by ambulance. A Red Cross official said some "were in a state of severe shock following rape by African soldiers."

Paul Libert, the captain of the plane, said that at Leopoldville airport Congolese who could not read nor write had been put in charge and when they were shown an order authorizing the plane to move they didn't understand it.

Khaki-clad young soldiers ordered to the Congo filed into the huge planes that had scarcely finished disembarking their haggard women and weeping children.

The soldiers were widely applauded by hundreds of anxious Belgians, some of whom had stood through a chilling 24-hour vigil at the airport hoping to hear of relatives in the Congo.

Airport crowds, which jammed all public terraces of the immense modern airport buildings, had angrily booed Belgian Ministers Auguste de Schrijver and Ganshof Van der Mersch as they took off for the Congo to help restore order.

Many Belgians blame the government for the disorders, saying the Congo was given independence before it was capable of self-rule.

UNDERGROUND AT U.N. UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Beneath U.N. headquarters are three floors of underground garages with a capacity for parking more than 1,500 cars.

Commissioner Marshall Holcomb said it will be "sometime next week before any tabulation will be available." A preliminary audit was completed last week.

Earl T. Mathews, 32, Marmet, confessed to the robbery Friday and State Police found the cash from the trunk of his car.

Holcomb, meanwhile, said the arrest of Mathews proves that the Motor Vehicles Department, is not a "mecca for criminals."

Holcomb was obviously referring to reports that a number of persons with criminal records were employed in his department.

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood Saturday pointed out that now is an "opportune time to check security measures at the capitol and various state offices."

More than one-half of all American industrial employees need some kind of eye aid to see properly for their jobs.

$351,828 Taken In Robbery

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — State Police have recovered $351,828 in cash taken in the robbery of the State Motor Vehicles Department last month but the department apparently still doesn't know how much is missing.

Commissioner Marshall Holcomb said it will be "sometime next week before any tabulation will be available." A preliminary audit was completed last week.

Earl T. Mathews, 32, Marmet, confessed to the robbery Friday and State Police found the cash from the trunk of his car.

Holcomb, meanwhile, said the arrest of Mathews proves that the Motor Vehicles Department, is not a "mecca for criminals."

Linda Bement Begins Reign, Has Nervous Stomach

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Linda Bement began her reign as "Miss Universe" of 1960 Sunday with such a nervous stomach she could hardly eat a bite of breakfast.

Miss Bement, 18, of Salt Lake City, Utah, won the international beauty crown over 82 girls from other countries Saturday night in the grand finale of the Miss Universe contest, which was moved here from Long Beach, Calif., in a dispute over whether bathing suits should be worn in such competitions.

Linda measured in at five feet, six inches tall and weighed 120 pounds. Her measurements are 37-23-36. Before she won the Miss Universe title, she was named Miss U.S.A. in a preliminary round of the contest.

Delegate Votes Are Tabulated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Status of the Democratic presidential race as tabulated by United Press International on the basis of committed delegates and known first-ballot choices:

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson 240½
Sen. John F. Kennedy 606½
Adlai E. Stevenson 26½
Sen. Stuart Symington 71½
Favorite sons 244½
Uncommitted 331½
(Needed to nominate—761)

Body Identified

ATTICA, Ind. (AP) — State Police Saturday identified the body of a man found Friday on a farm near Attica as Orris L. Crouch, 68, of Elkwater, Randolph County, W. Va.

California's Gov. Brown Backs Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown Sunday came out for Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts for president.

The governor released the 81-vote delegation pledged to him as a favorite son to vote as they individually pleased at the Democratic presidential nominating convention.

The statement was made at the opening of a closed-door caucus of the delegation and handed out to a crush of waiting newsmen.

The delegation then proceeded with its caucus, and the possibility of a poll to determine the division of their total.

Most estimates have given Kennedy upwards of 40 and as high as 60 of the 81 votes.

The governor himself said several days ago he was confident that a majority of the delegation would follow him in his choice.

Brown thus announced that his name would not be placed in nomination as a favorite-son candidate.

Declaring himself for Kennedy, Brown said that "he has proven himself a consummate campaigner, a powerful vote-getter and a clear direct and thoughtful spokesman on the critical public issues before this country."

"He has spoken out perceptively and persuasively on America's policies and problems abroad; on civil rights; on medical care for the aged; on a need for greater economic growth and greater economic opportunities for all the American people; and on every other major domestic issue," the governor added.

Religious Sect's Members Arrested For Kidnaping

BENSON, Ariz. (AP) — Two members of a religious sect hidden underground for a week in belief in the mistle of an atomic blast made one of the sect's members a kidnaper Saturday night — they sheltered. Their husbands didn't come out and promptly got arrested for kidnaping.

Two angry fathers whose wives are among 100 members of the sect, got mad about it. But we don't force anybody—we wouldn't want the anybody who wouldn't want to go.

The complaining fathers are not members of the Full Gospel Assembly group of men, women and children who went into basement shelters last Monday night.

Glenn Scott, one of the two arrested, said the group went underground because "the Lord told us to go in."

He added: "We are all waiting for a sign from Him telling us when to come out."

Now held in jail with fellow-member Charles Williams, Scott added to officers: "If you hear a rumble and a roar, we'd appreciate being rushed back to the shelter."

Warren Burke and Orgil Woodward, fathers of six children still hiding out with their mothers, placed the kidnaping charges. "We haven't kidnaped anybody."

Convicted Man Said Innocent

BALTIMORE (AP) — Almost three years ago, Horace Spriggs began serving a nine-year prison term. Now, it develops, he may be innocent.

Spriggs was convicted on charges filed after two men assaulted and robbed John T. Ford of $200. Ford identified Spriggs as one of his two assailants.

Just recently, however, one man pleaded guilty to being one of the two men involved in the attack and police arrested a second man and accused him of being the accomplice. Both were held for grand jury action.

Police Sgt. Joseph Judd also quoted Ford as saying he was mistaken when he identified Spriggs.

Spriggs' attorney asked Gov. Tawes to pardon the prisoner and Tawes referred the case to the State Department of Parole and Probation.

Kentucky territory was discovered by Pere Marquette and Louis Joliet around 1673.

Inn Is Robbed By Three Men Who Get $26

SEAFORD, Del. (AP) — Three men robbed the Riverview Inn in nearby Blades of $26 Sunday after forcing a waitress to lie on the floor.

State Police at Bridgeville said the Negroes made their escape in an orange colored car. They were described as dark complexioned and between 25 and 35 years old.

Police said the descriptions matched those of a trio that held up a tavern in Sudlersville, Md. Saturday.

In Sunday's holdup, police said the bandits ordered waitress Patricia Dorman to lie on the floor and one of them threatened to shoot her if she moved. Then they rifled the cash register.

The waitress said none of the men showed a gun.

Special Park Group Sought

BALTIMORE (AP)—A proposal for the formation of a special committee to coordinate planning for the Gunpowder River Valley Park will be advanced this week by the head of the State Roads Commission.

John B. Funk, director of the agency, said his proposal would be contained in letters to State, Baltimore city and Baltimore and Harford county authorities. Also involved will be the Gunpowder River Valley Park Advisory Committee, headed by former Judge John B. Gontrom.

Funk said proper coordination of all groups concerned with the 12,000-acre park would lead to efficient planning of roads and expressways in and to the area.

The proposed park would cover an area between the Gunpowder and Little Gunpowder rivers, extending from the northern Baltimore city area into Carroll County.

Fish continue to grow until they die.

New Evidence Hinted By Rees Defense Agent

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP)—An attorney for Melvin D. Rees Jr. says new evidence has been uncovered which will clear the 31-year-old dance band musician of kidnap-murder charges against him.

The attorney, Walter L. Green of Hyattsville, said Saturday he would not disclose the evidence at present. But he said it might be revealed when Rees is arraigned in Baltimore Friday, adding that Rees would plead innocent at that time.

Rees, accused in the kidnap-slaying of four members of a Virginia family, has been held without bail in the Baltimore City Jail since he was brought there June 7 from Memphis, Tenn.

The Friday arraignment will be on a federal indictment charging him with kidnaping and slaying Mrs. Mildred Jackson, 27, of Apple Grove, Va., and her 5-year-old daughter, Susan Ann. The family of Carroll V. Jackson, 29, was abducted on a lonely road near their Louisa County home in January, 1939. Jackson and an 18-month-old daughter were found dead near Fredericksburg, Va., in March of that year and the bodies of Mrs. Jackson and Susan Ann were discovered 17 days later in a shallow grave near Gambrills, Md.

FBI agents arrested Rees June 24 in West Memphis, Ark., where he was selling pianos. His parents live in Hyattsville.

Rural Minister Of Year Is Hardy Native

Morgantown Pastor Receives Honor

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — A native of Hardy County, Rev. Stacy L. Grosscup, pastor of Spruce Street Methodist Church in Morgantown, has been named "Rural Minister of the Year" in West Virginia by the Progressive Farmer magazine. Emory University of Theology and the West Virginia Soil Conservation District Supervisors Association.

As a result of this honor, Rev. Mr. Grosscup received a scholarship to the town and country section of the Churches and Community Workshop held at Emory University in Georgia from June 21 to July 7.

Rev. Mr. Grosscup is an outstanding conservationist, not only as a minister and teacher, but as a hobbyist as well. He worked for the West Virginia Conservation Commission before entering Duke University Theological Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1947. He had been graduated from Morris Harvey College in 1941.

He has many hobbies. A collection of old muzzle-loading rifles lines the walls of his trophy room. He also is a taxidermist, ardent archer and bow hunter. For three years in a row he has succeeded in killing deer with his bow and arrow.

West Virginia's rural minister of the year was the son of a rural clergyman, Rev. A. W. Grosscup. He grew up and attended schools at Greenville, Monroe County.

Mt. Lake Park Votes Tuesday

MT. LAKE PARK — Citizens of Mt. Lake Park will go to the polls Tuesday to elect two councilmen for two-year terms, and also vote on whether or not to accept the town's new charter which was approved by the Mayor and Council last November.

There are three candidates for council: Harry C. Coddington, Aubrey O. Savage and Robert B. Sincell. Holdover members are Alfred Calhoun, Glenn Simpson and Raymond Welch.

C. C. Mason has another year to serve as mayor.

The new charter was drawn up by Fred A. Thayer, town attorney, who explained that the old charter had been sketchy and left in doubt a number of items. The new charter provides for a definite budget and specific taxation.

It also indicates definitely the duties of the mayor and members of council.

The original charter was granted April 17, 1931 and in September of that year the authority of the mayor was questioned. A hearing was held on a suit for injunction to restrain the newly elected authorities from assessing, levying and collecting taxes upon the assessable property of the owners of the park. Those seeking the injunction lost.

The incorporation had been opposed by the Mt. Lake Park Association and the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Church, which owned and controlled all of the public buildings, several hotels and much of the unimproved real estate.

Mt. Lake Park Votes Tuesday

MT. LAKE PARK — Citizens of Mt. Lake Park will go to the polls Tuesday to elect two councilmen for two-year terms, and also vote on whether or not to accept the town's new charter which was approved by the Mayor and Council last November.

There are three candidates for council: Harry C. Coddington, Aubrey O. Savage and Robert B. Sincell. Holdover members are Alfred Calhoun, Glenn Simpson and Raymond Welch.

C. C. Mason has another year to serve as mayor.

The new charter was drawn up by Fred A. Thayer, town attorney, who explained that the old charter had been sketchy and left in doubt a number of items. The new charter provides for a definite budget and specific taxation.

It also indicates definitely the duties of the mayor and members of council.

The original charter was granted April 17, 1931 and in September of that year the authority of the mayor was questioned. A hearing was held on a suit for injunction to restrain the newly elected authorities from assessing, levying and collecting taxes upon the assessable property of the owners of the park. Those seeking the injunction lost.

The incorporation had been opposed by the Mt. Lake Park Association and the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Church, which owned and controlled all of the public buildings, several hotels and much of the unimproved real estate.

34 Units Appear In Keyser Parade

KEYSER — Some 34 units were featured in the grand parade Friday evening in Keyser, which was sponsored by the Keyser Volunteer Fire Department which began at 7:30 at the B. and O. Freight House on to Main Street and ended at the Municipal Swimming Pool. Michael Robinson was the parade marshal.

Cash awards were given to the following groups: Westernport Fire Company, best appearing fire company with Frostburg; second place: Parsons Fire Company, company coming the longest distance; Lonaconing Fire Company, best appearing fire truck; Lonaconing, best senior band; The Blue Angels Drum Corp., the best drum corp and Rainbow Girls, No. 16 Drill Team, best appearing marching auxiliary. Judges were Frank Hott, Mineral County assessor; Harry Ervin, Navy recruiter, and Capt. William Gardner, Keyser National Guard.

Miss Keyser Fire Department, Janice Gray and the other beauty contestants were also featured in the parade.

Summer Optimism In The Market

As the first half of 1960 drew to a close, stock market analysts, as wedded to past performance data as any horse player, were looking cautiously but expectantly for signs of the traditional summer rally. Based on the record of Dow-Jones industrials, the probabilities are better than 2½ to 1 that stocks at the close of August will be higher than at the end of the preceding month and better than 2 1/5 to 1 that July will outdo June.

The industrial average has been higher at the end of August than at the end of July in 41 of the past 62 years. As a corollary, industrials have scored a worthwhile advance from June lows in 38 of the past 42 years and rails in 39 of those years. The gain in industrial stock prices, when it occurred, averaged about 14 per cent.

Another past-performance indicator of a stock price rise is the fact that this is a Presidential election year. In 17 of the past 22 Presidential years — since 1872 — there has been a rally between June and August. In the past 15 Presidential election years — since the turn of the century — the market has gained eight times between conventions and elections; lost only three times.

Then, too, the stock market is supposed to anticipate business trends and to discount them. If we are to expect a general upturn in business and the economy this autumn, and most observers tell us that we are, it would be logical for the market to begin so to indicate.

Stocks largely declined in the first six months of 1960. Late in May and early in June prices advanced, wiping out a good deal of the earlier losses, but by no means threatening to penetrate the all-time highs of last August. Then came the doldrums. Now, the devout market chartists are telling us, the likely direction is Up.

These Days

The Art Of Politics

Politics is the art of controlling people. In a democracy, the people can vote the politicians out of existence; in an autocratic or totalitarian form of government, the people can resort to revolution. In either instance, the people are led by others than those in power.

Each place and period requires a different idiom and a different gesture, but the art of manipulation is always the same. Stalin, for instance, had it easy because he could kill his opponents; Richard Croker deprived his opponents of a livelihood; the Vane brothers of Philadelphia drove men from public life. Their techniques were coarse as compared to Khrushchev's, the play-actor, who achieves so much by public relations. His techniques are mindful of Fiorello La Guardia who had so many different authentic sides that one hardly knew which was the real man — "The Little Flower" who read funnies to children over the radio, or "Butch" the tough ward-heeler fighting his way up in East Harlem.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was undoubtedly the most able exponent of the art of politics in our time, because he could manipulate the most irreconcilable persons and groups — the Republican Stimson and the Communist Browder; the idealistic Tugwell and the pedestrian Ed Flynn; the Democrat, Jim Farley, and the Socialist, Sidney Hillman. One can go on listing Roosevelt's complexes, but the fact is that while he left few friends who worship him as Herbert Hoover continues to have, important elements among the masses adore his memory. His mark was upon the populace not upon the intimate. Those who knew him least loved him most.

From this description of Roosevelt's personality, one can draw the conclusion that the smart politician is one who walks on both sides of the street. It has never been true. A competent, effective, successful politician always takes his stand.

The reason that the businessman nearly always fails in politics is that he attempts to be cute. He believes that the customer is always right and he will sell the customer both white and pink soap if necessary. He molds himself to the customer's taste. Thomas E. Dewey depended upon polls to a greater extent than any other politician and he was defeated; Harry Truman depended upon his own sensibilities and he is still a factor in politics. Wendell Willkie wanted the support of the National Association of Manufacturers and of the Willkie clubs which were New Dealish Republicans. Nelson Rockefeller has maintained a staff of all kinds of experts to tell him what to say.

Politicians must take a stand but they are flexible because they deal with the same emotionalism that requires a woman to wear her skirt one inch above or below the knee, depending on the year. But the woman does not change. The politician can turn on a dime, but he does not move from his position. The better he can accomplish this feat, the longer he lasts.

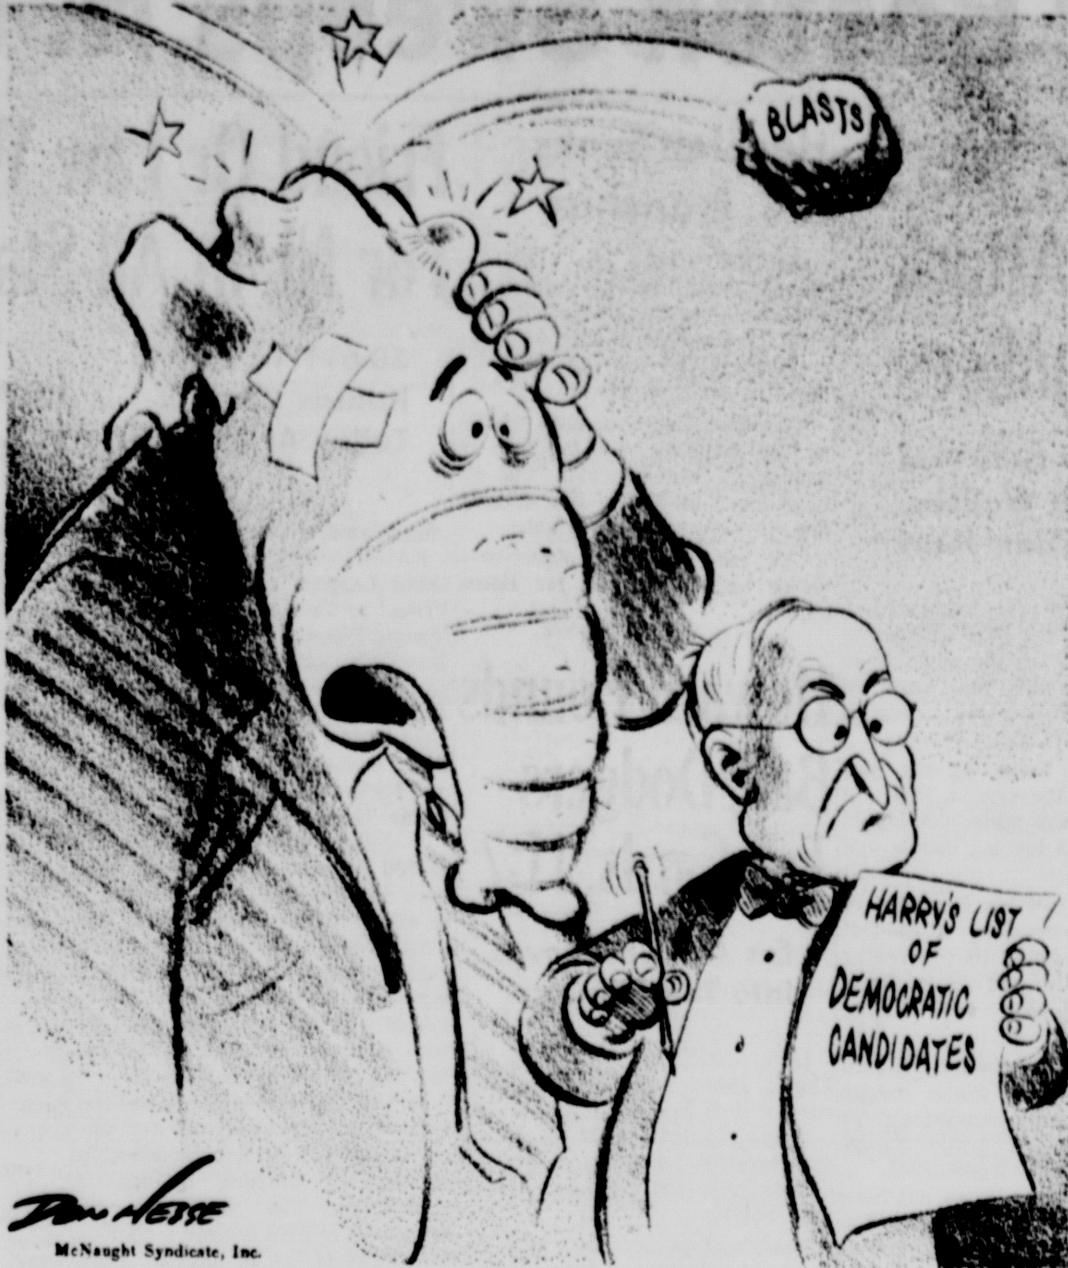

I have been in the business of watching politicians man and boy for more than half a century. I knew Tim Sullivan, Leon Trotsky, Sun Yat-sen, Baron Shidehara — to mention only a few very skillful manipulators of men. One of the brightest politicians of my experience was Mike Borodin, a Chicago lawyer, whom Karl Radek selected to become the dictator of China with Chiang Kai-shek as his pawn. Borodin was brilliant in a strange country among a very strange group of peoples.

The word, principle, is generally confused with the word, purpose. We say that Carmine DeSapio is without principle but that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has principle. What we really mean, in politics, when we say that is that each has a purpose and that their purposes are different. If, for instance, you want to test that try to write down what you believe are the principles which guide Carmine DeSapio and Eleanor Roosevelt. No matter how different their purposes are, their principles will turn out to be the same — and very thin ones at that.

The politician who is all things to all men fails. Franklin D. Roosevelt was not all things to all men. His art was that he manipulated varieties of men to accept Roosevelt. Perhaps that too was the gift of Dr. Samuel Johnson who could not write as entertainingly as Boswell or paint at all like Reynolds or be a poet like Goldsmith—but all men sat at his feet.

'Say - You Want A Guy Named Rockefeller?'

U.S. May Be Forced To Intervene In Cuba

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The time for action on the Cuban problem has come. The patience of the United States government is not unlimited.

Dealing with an erratic individual like Fidel Castro requires pre cautionary measures. So Americans are rapidly getting out of Cuba. In a little while they may all have been evacuated, though no formal warning to leave Cuba has as yet been issued by the Department of State here. Out of the 6,000 Americans living there, nearly 3,000 have already departed with their families.

Is all this the forerunner of military action? Not unless Castro provokes such a crisis. But if he does, he will find no hesitation on the part of the United States to employ its military power to protect the lives and properties of its citizens.

The Castro government has confiscated the property of Americans, British and other Europeans involving hundreds of millions of dollars, and threatens more seizures. Confiscation in itself is not a basis for military action, but, if the property is actually stolen and nothing but worthless notes are issued in exchange, the American government is justified in taking over the properties and retaining possession until such time as a free government comes into office which will respect the rights of American and other foreign citizens in Cuba.

The United States government has an obligation not only to its own citizens but to those of other governments. For ever since the Monroe Doctrine was proclaimed in the early days of our Republic, the United States has acted as a trustee for the citizens of other countries. The doctrine was designed as a warning to European governments not to seek to establish a foothold in this hemisphere by annexing or dominating territory not previously colonized by them. The Soviet government, by gaining control of the Castro regime, is today flagrantly disregarding the Monroe Doctrine.

In recent years the Monroe Doctrine has been accepted as an international obligation of all the Pan-American states. In 1954 at

Caracas, Venezuela, the 10th Inter-American Conference, attended by members of the Organization of American States, adopted a resolution which declared:

"That the domination or control of the political institutions of any American state by the international Communist movement, extending to this hemisphere the political system of an extracontinental power, would constitute a threat to the sovereignty and political independence of the American states, endangering the peace of America, and would call for a meeting of consultation to consider the adoption of appropriate action in accordance with existing treaties."

Such a consultation does not require unanimous action. Indeed, it may be just an intermediate step before a decision is made by the United States, along with several other countries, to use military force as authorized under Article 51 of the United Nations Charter. The only requirement is that the United Nations Security Council be given proper notice of the steps taken.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

BRAUN MOVIE HERO — They had a movie on at the Senate the other evening, and even though it was screened during a Senate session, the turnout was pretty good. At one point, though, there was a quorum call which sent some of the audience scurrying.

The movie was a pre-showing of "I Aim at the Stars," the life story of the German-born rocket expert, Dr. Werner von Braun. The space scientist was the guest of honor and he admitted that he had "got used to the idea" that the man he was watching on the screen represented him.

There was general agreement that the actor who played the leading role, Curt Jurgens, was somewhat handsomer than Von Braun. Even Von Braun readily conceded this. However, he thought the picture was good and gave a fairly accurate, if somewhat dramatized, version of his life.

The unusual setting was arranged by several Senators who wanted to pay a unique tribute to the scientist who has worked and fought so hard to alert the country and the government to the importance of space exploration.

SOUR NEWS FOR CUBA — After suffering severe foreign policy reverses with Russia and Japan, the United States government has drastically revised its policy toward Cuba. There is no way of knowing whether the shift on Castro's regime results from the failures in other areas. Available State Department sources insist there is no connection.

Nevertheless, the administration now has imposed a cut in American purchases of Cuban sugar, a complete reversal from its previous position that this country should not levy economic reprisals against the Cuban people because of the anti-Americanism of Fidel Castro.

NOSE COUNT — With preliminary figures of the 1960 national decennial census in some of the nation's larger cities are doing some worrying. They are the big towns that lost population in the 10 years since 1950.

With smaller populations, these large cities can expect a decrease in their share of state and federal tax revenue. New York City, for instance, may expect a cut estimated at $1,350,000 because its population sagged some 242,000.

Other major cities which shrank while suburban areas mushroomed are Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

GOP Researchers Doing Thorough Job On Senator Kennedy's Record

By Drew Pearson

LOS ANGELES — Republican researchers have been doing a job on the prospective Democratic candidates, especially Jack Kennedy whom they regard as most likely to win in Los Angeles. Significantly they seem quite happy about this prospect, because they have dug up some ammunition which they think will make the young Massachusetts Senator a sitting duck next November.

Probably the Republicans are too optimistic. Anyway it will pay both Kennedy and the delegates to take a look at the enemy's ammunition. Here is some of it:

WEST VIRGINIA — The FBI has turned in its report on alleged West Virginia vote-buying by Kennedy forces. Nothing will be done about it until the convention is over, after which a grand jury will be called. Justice Department officials aren't talking but seem delighted at the prospects.

MCCARTHYISM — Democratic attacks on Nixon for being a McCarthyite will be counteracted by some interesting quotes by Kennedy in which he praised Nixon in his Senate race against Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas. GOP researchers have dug up a speech by Kennedy November 10, 1950, before Harvard students in which he said that he personally was very happy that Mrs. Douglas had just been defeated in California by Richard Nixon; that he liked Joe McCarthy — "He may have something," that he supported the McCarran Immigration Act; and had no great respect for Dean Acheson or any member of the Fair Deal administration.

Jack has come a long way from that day. But if the Democrats get too tough against Nixon and use of McCarthy tactics against Mrs. Douglas, Republicans also plan to bring out the Jack Kennedy contribution of $1,000 to help Nixon defeat Mrs. Douglas.

JOE KENNEDY ON HITLERISM — Most interesting documents dug up by Republican researchers are the correspondence between the Nazi Ambassador in London and the German Foreign Office shortly before Pearl Harbor. This was found among German files at the end of the war and show Jack's father, then ambassador to London, having intimate talks with the German Ambassador in order to keep the United States out of war.

Reports To Hitler — Young Kennedy, who had a great war record, is in no way involved. Nevertheless, because of the closeness between father and son, Republican strategists believe the Nazi letters will be effective. Here are some of the significant quotes they plan to use:

On June 13, 1938 — after Hitler invaded Austria — German Ambassador von Dirksen in London wrote State Secretary Weizacker in Berlin about a long talk with Ambassador Kennedy.

"I, Mr. Kennedy opened the conversation," he reported, "by mentioning the question of delivery of Helium to Germany. It was extremely regrettable that it had not materialized. The only one opposed to the project had been Secretary of the Interior Lohke."

"I touched on Kennedy's trip (to the USA) and its purpose," he believed above all that the United States would establish friendly relations with Germany."

"The ambassador then touched upon the Jewish question and stated that it was naturally of great importance to German-Americans. It was not so much the fact that we wanted to get rid of the Jews that was harmful to us, but rather the loud clamor with which we accomplished this purpose. He himself understood our Jewish policy completely; he was from Boston and there in one golf club and in other clubs, no Jews had been admitted for the past 50 years. His father had not been elected mayor because he was a Catholic."

"Kennedy stated that the average American took a very simple view of problems of foreign policy; there were only 3½ million Jews in the United States and overwhelming majority of them lived on the East Coast. Elsewhere the anti-German sentiment was by no means widespread."

The German ambassador gave some of his own views of the United States, saying that during the early Roosevelt administration the United States had leaned toward the totalitarian state.

"Mr. Kennedy agreed with my statements wholeheartedly," von Dirksen reported. "In particular he considered it correct that during the first years of Roosevelt, the United States had been governed in an authoritarian manner."

"I mentioned the poisonous role of the American press," he did not have much to say, and merely mentioned that the press on the East Coast was unfortunately predominant in the formation of public opinion and it was strongly influenced by the Jews."

The German ambassador ended his letter "with many regards and Heil Hitler."

When Ambassador Kennedy returned to London from his trip to the USA he conferred with the German envoy again and proposed a trip to Germany. There followed various other letters. Finally on August 16, 1938, Under Secretary of State Weermann wrote the German charge d'affaires in London: "We request you to tell Mr. Kennedy in a friendly manner that his visit to Berlin, for the reason mentioned by him, would be very welcome."

The trip never materialized. The Nazi putsch into Czechoslovakia a few weeks later aroused American public opinion to a fever pitch and made it appear to many that war was inevitable.

Old Joe, however, didn't think so. As late as November 10, 1940 he told the Boston Globe "Linbergh isn't crazy" about keeping us out of the war, attacked the Lend-Lease bill and jeered at Mrs. Roosevelt.

"She bothered us more on jobs to take care of poor little noddies... than all the rest of the people put together. She's always sending me a note to have some little Susie Glotz to tea at the embassy."

After that Joe resigned. (Copyright 1960, By The Bell Syndicate)

This is Virginia Lee's birthday. She is 23, the mother of 3½ babies. She is a well-built girl with thick dark brown hair cut close to her head, brown almost spiritual eyes, and the prettiest face I've seen. She is a sentimental, a saver of old pictures and souvenirs, a kisser and a hugger who is genuinely glad when someone else gets the pot of gold.

Her fourth baby will be born in six weeks. At the moment, she looks more like a bungalow than a beauty. She has twin daughters, 23 months of age, and a boy 11 months old. If she could only have managed to have them a little closer together, they'd all be in the same class in school.

As my younger daughter Gail is the wit and the sparkle and the fun in my life, so Ginny is the heart and the soul of it. I can see you nodding wisely, thinking of your children, and murmuring, "I know what you mean." That is the reason why I write about mine — so that, in them, you will see yours a little more clearly.

Virginia Lee was born in Leesburg, Virginia while her mother and I were on vacation. She wasn't expected for at least a month. Everything happened so fast that we merely switched the name of town and state to get a name for her. She came home in a bread basket on the back seat of an old car. The only time she cried was when I stopped for a red light.

I was her favorite, I guess, from the beginning. And she was mine. I had a work bench in the cellar and she would sit on it by the hour on Saturdays and Sundays while I tried to repair whatever was broken around the house. At the age of 3, she knew every tool in the chest and could get them for me almost as fast as I could call the words.

When she was 4, she told me in confidence that, when she grew up, she was going to marry Gene Autry and live on a horse ranch out west. It was a solemn secret and I kept it for a long time. Another time, when I was shaving, she was standing on the lavatory seat watching, and she asked me to sing a cowboy song.

I can't sing a cracked note, but I tried one chorus of "The Last Roundup." When I finished shaving, I turned and saw that she was in tears. I didn't realize that one so young would understand that the cowboy in the song had died.

We loved dogs and horses and music and, until she got too big for me, we went everywhere together. When the first date arrived, in thick lenses and a twenty dollar car, to take her to a matinee movie, I knew that I was through. My time was over. Hers had begun.

She wore high heels that day and almost fell down a flight of stairs in them, but she ended up graceful and attractive, standing on the inside of the shoes. The boy took her to the movies, but he never came back.

Virginia Lee was born a pale blonde, but her hair darkened as she grew. Her life ambition was to win the approval of her mother, who loved both girls to distraction but dreaded to show it. Elinor thought that any show of affection was a sign of weakness. I did the loving. And the spanking too.

In Teaneck High School, Ginny studied journalism and put it to practical use. At the age of 17, she wrote her first and only book — a biography of Father Duffy of the Fighting 69th. I helped a little, but she did all the drudgery. She still gets small royalty checks from it.

A big red-headed kid with a rich smile began to show up in the evenings. His name was Charles Frechette and, somehow Elinor and I knew from the start that this was to be the man in Virginia Lee's life. He was studying truck management—a course I never heard of—and, the more I sat and talked to Charlie, the happier I became that he was to be the second and last man in Ginny's life.

It required no courage on my part to stand in church and place her hand in his. They belonged to each other. After a year in an apartment they bought a house in Lincoln, New Jersey. Both of them love children, so they now have a flying start on a personal orphanage.

It's a ranch house, and Charlie has fixed up a room in the cellar for fun when the children are in bed. There is a big back yard, some shady oaks, and a lawn that burns brown once a week. They also have a female German shepherd named Tammy. She's big and she runs for cover only when the babies start teething on her ear.

There is also a hysterical parakeet who talks in sign language, and, until recently, a cat with a bent tail who climbed draperies. The Frechettes are as happy as any couple has a right to be.

Now Ginny is 23. To which I bow a gray head and say: "Ad multos annos."

Summer Optimism In The Market

As the first half of 1960 drew to a close, stock market analysts, as wedded to past performance data as any horse player, were looking cautiously but expectantly for signs of the traditional summer rally. Based on the record of Dow-Jones industrials, the probabilities are better than 2 1/2 to 1 that stocks at the close of August will be higher than at the end of the preceding month and better than 2 1/5 to 1 that July will outdo June.

The industrial average has been higher at the end of August than at the end of July in 41 of the past 62 years. As a corollary, industrials have scored a worthwhile advance from June lows in 38 of the past 42 years and rails in 39 of those years. The gain in industrial stock prices, when it occurred, averaged about 14 per cent.

Another past-performance indicator of a stock price rise is the fact that this is a Presidential election year. In 17 of the past 22 Presidential years — since 1872 — there has been a rally between June and August. In the past 15 Presidential election years — since the turn of the century — the market has gained eight times between conventions and elections; lost only three times.

Then, too, the stock market is supposed to anticipate business trends and to discount them. If we are to expect a general upturn in business and the economy this autumn, and most observers tell us that we are, it would be logical for the market to begin so to indicate.

Stocks largely declined in the first six months of 1960. Late in May and early in June prices advanced, wiping out a good deal of the earlier losses, but by no means threatening to penetrate the all-time highs of last August. Then came the doldrums. Now, the devout market chartists are telling us, the likely direction is Up.

These Days

The Art Of Politics

Politics is the art of controlling people. In a democracy, the people can vote the politicians out of existence; in an autocratic or totalitarian form of government, the people can resort to revolution. In either instance, the people are led by others than those in power.

Each place and period requires a different idiom and a different gesture, but the art of manipulation is always the same. Stalin, for instance, had it easy because he could kill his opponents; Richard Croker deprived his opponents of a livelihood; the Vane brothers of Philadelphia drove men from public life. Their techniques were coarse as compared to Khrushchev's, the play-actor, who achieves so much by public relations. His techniques are mindful of Fiorello La Guardia who had so many different authentic sides that one hardly knew which was the real man — "The Little Flower" who read fables to children over the radio, or "Butch" the tough ward-heeler fighting his way up in East Harlem.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was undoubtedly the most able exponent of the art of politics in our time, because he could manipulate the most irreconcilable persons and groups — the Republican Stimson and the Communist Browder; the idealistic Tugwell and the pedestrian Ed Flynn; the Democrat, Jim Farley, and the Socialist, Sidney Hillman. One can go on listing Roosevelt's complexes, but the fact is that while he left few friends who worship him as Herbert Hoover continues to have, important elements among the masses adore his memory. His mark was upon the populace not upon the intimate. Those who knew him least loved him most.

From this description of Roosevelt's personality, one can draw the conclusion that the smart politician is one who walks on both sides of the street. It has never been true. A competent, effective, successful politician always takes his stand.

The reason that the businessman nearly always fails in politics is that he attempts to be cute. He believes that the customer is always right and he will sell the customer both white and pink soap if necessary. He molds himself to the customer's taste. Thomas E. Dewey depended upon polls to a greater extent than any other politician and he was defeated; Harry Truman depended upon his own sensibilities and he is still a factor in politics. Wendell Willkie wanted the support of the National Association of Manufacturers and of the Willkie clubs which were New Dealish Republicans. Nelson Rockefeller has maintained a staff of all kinds of experts to tell him what to say.

Politicians must take a stand but they are flexible because they deal with the same emotionalism that requires a woman to wear her skirt one inch above or below the knee, depending on the year. But the woman does not change. The politician can turn on a dime, but he does not move from his position. The better he can accomplish this feat, the longer he lasts.

I have been in the business of watching politicians man and boy for more than half a century. I knew Tim Sullivan, Leon Trotsky, Sun Yat-sen, Baron Shidehara — to mention only a few very skillful manipulators of men. One of the brightest politicians of my experience was Mike Borodin, a Chicago lawyer, whom Karl Radek selected to become the dictator of China with Chiang Kai-shek as his pawn. Borodin was brilliant in a strange country among a very strange group of people.

The word, principle, is generally confused with the word, purpose. We say that Carmine DeSapio is without principle but that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has principle. What we really mean, in politics, when we say that is that each has a purpose and that their purposes are different. If, for instance, you want to test that try to write down what you believe are the principles which guide Carmine DeSapio and Eleanor Roosevelt. No matter how different their purposes are, their principles will turn out to be the same — and very thin ones at that.

The politician who is all things to all men fails. Franklin D. Roosevelt was not all things to all men. His art was that he manipulated varieties of men to accept Roosevelt. Perhaps that too was the gift of Dr. Samuel Johnson who could not write as entertainingly as Boswell or paint at all like Reynolds or be a poet like Goldsmith—but all men sat at his feet.

U.S. May Be Forced To Intervene In Cuba

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The time for action on the Cuban problem has come. The patience of the United States government is not unlimited.

Dealing with an erratic individual like Fidel Castro requires pre cautionary measures. So Americans are rapidly getting out of Cuba. In a little while they may all have been evacuated, though no formal warning to leave Cuba has as yet been issued by the Department of State here. Out of the 6,000 Americans living there, nearly 3,000 have already departed with their families.

Is all this the forerunner of military action? Not unless Castro provokes such a crisis. But if he does, he will find no hesitation on the part of the United States to employ its military power to protect the lives and properties of its citizens.

The Castro government has confiscated the property of Americans, British and other Europeans involving hundreds of millions of dollars, and threatens more seizures. Confiscation in itself is not a basis for military action, but, if the property is actually stolen and nothing but worthless notes are issued in exchange, the American government is justified in taking over the properties and retaining possession until such time as a free government comes into office which will respect the rights of American and other foreign citizens in Cuba.

The United States government has an obligation not only to its own citizens but to those of other governments. For ever since the Monroe Doctrine was proclaimed in the early days of our Republic, the United States has acted as a trustee for the citizens of other countries. The doctrine was designed as a warning to European governments not to seek to establish a foothold in this hemisphere by annexing or dominating territory not previously colonized by them. The Soviet government, by gaining control of the Castro regime, is today flagrantly disregarding the Monroe Doctrine.

In recent years the Monroe Doctrine has been accepted as an international obligation of all the Pan-American states. In 1954 at

Caracas, Venezuela, the 10th Inter-American Conference, attended by members of the Organization of American States, adopted a resolution which declared:

"That the domination or control of the political institutions of any American state by the international Communist movement, extending to this hemisphere the political system of an extracontinental power, would constitute a threat to the sovereignty and political independence of the American states, endangering the peace of America, and would call for a meeting of consultation to consider the adoption of appropriate action in accordance with existing treaties."

Such a consultation does not require unanimous action. Indeed, it may be just an intermediate step before a decision is made by the United States, along with several other countries, to use military force as authorized under Article 51 of the United Nations Charter. The only requirement is that the United Nations Security Council be given proper notice of the steps taken.

Inside Washington

BRAUN MOVIE HERO — They had a movie on at the Senate the other evening, and even though it was screened during a Senate session, the turnout was pretty good. At one point, though, there was a quorum call which sent some of the audience scurrying.

The movie was a pre-showing of "I Aim at the Stars," the life story of the German-born rocket expert, Dr. Werner von Braun.

The space scientist was the guest of honor and he admitted that he had to "get used to the idea" that the man he was watching on the screen represented him.

There was general agreement that the actor who played the leading role, Curt Jurgens, was somewhat handsomer than Von Braun. Even Von Braun readily conceded this. However, he thought the picture was good and gave a fairly accurate, if somewhat dramatized, version of his life.

The unusual setting was arranged by several Senators who wanted to pay a unique tribute to the scientist who has worked and fought so hard to alert the country and the government to the importance of space exploration.

SOUL NEWS FOR CUBA — After suffering severe foreign policy reverses with Russia and Japan, the United States government has drastically revised its policy toward Cuba. There is no way of knowing whether the shift on Castro's regime results from the failures in other areas. Available State Department sources insist there is no connection.

Nevertheless, the administration now has imposed a cut in American purchases of Cuban sugar, a complete reversal from its previous position that this country should not levy economic reprisals against the Cuban people because of the anti-Americanism of Fidel Castro.

NOSE COUNT—With preliminary figures of the 1960 national decennial census in some of the nation's larger cities are doing some worrying. They are the big towns that lost population in the 10 years since 1950.

With smaller populations, these large cities can expect a decrease in their share of state and federal tax revenue. New York City, for instance, may expect a cut estimated at $1,350,000 because its population sagged some 242,000.

Other major cities which shrank while suburban areas mushroomed are Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

What The Study Of Chromosomes Discloses

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

We have our beginning in the union of two germ cells, one from our mother and the other from our father. Let's forget that we learned years ago in our biology class that each cell holds 46 chromosomes. Today we know the number is 46.

When the fertilized egg divides into two cells, each gets a new set of 46 chromosomes. When these divide into four cells, the chromosomes divide again until we reach our full complement of cells for the various organs and tissues.

Every skin cell, for example, has 46 chromosomes and the same applies to the cells of muscles, bone marrow, and all the other tissues of the body. A new technic, which makes it possible to isolate, count, and measure chromosomes from the body cells, has opened up an entirely new field of study in heredity.

The normal chromosomal arrangement has been determined. Each cell has 44 ordinary and two sex chromosomes. The latter are easily identified; females possess two X chromosomes and males have an X and a Y. It is the union of these chromosomes in the sperm and ova that determines the offspring's sex. GOP Researchers Doing Thorough Job On Senator Kennedy's Record

By Drew Pearson

LOS ANGELES— Republican researchers have been doing a job on the prospective Democratic candidates, especially Jack Kennedy whom they regard as most likely to win in Los Angeles. Significantly they seem quite happy about this prospect, because they have dug up some ammunition which they think will make the young Massachusetts Senator a sitting duck next November.

Probably the Republicans are too optimistic. Anyway it will pay both Kennedy and the delegates to take a look at the enemy's ammunition. Here is some of it.

WEST VIRGINIA— The FBI has turned in its report on alleged West Virginia vote-buying by Kennedy forces. Nothing will be done about it until the convention is over, after which a grand jury will be called. Justice Department officials aren't talking but seem delighted at the prospects.

MCCARTHYISM— Democratic attacks on Nixon for being a McCarthyite will be counteracted by some interesting quotes by Kennedy in which he praised Nixon in his Senate race against Congressman Helen Gahagan Douglas. GOP researchers have dug up a speech by Kennedy November 10, 1950, before Harvard students in which he said that he personally was very happy that Mrs. Douglas had just been defeated in California by Richard Nixon; that he liked Joe McCarthy—"He may have something," that he supported the McCarran Immigration Act; and had no great respect for Dean Acheson or any member of the Fair Deal administration. Jack has come a long way from that day. But if the Democrats get too tough against Nixon and use of McCarthy tactics against Mrs. Douglas, Republicans also plan to bring out the Jack Kennedy contribution of $1,000 to help Nixon defeat Mrs. Douglas.

JOE KENNEDY ON HITLERISM— Most interesting documents dug up by Republican researchers are the correspondence between the Nazi Ambassador in London and the German Foreign Office shortly before Pearl Harbor. This was found among German files at the end of the war and show Jack's father, then ambassador to London, having intimate talks with the German Ambassador in order to keep the United States out of war.

Reports To Hitler— Young Kennedy, who had a great war record, is in no way involved. Nevertheless, because of the closeness between father and son, Republican strategists believe the Nazi letters will be effective. Here are some of the significant quotes they plan to use:

Roberts' Wild Throw Starts Rally In 9th

Buccaneers Score Four Runs; Harvey Haddix Is Victor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates took advantage of a throwing error by Robin Roberts to throw off a four-run rally in the ninth inning for a 6-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday.

The victory enabled the Pirates, who went into the game with a five-game lead in the National League, to gain an even split of the four-game series with Philadelphia.

Roberts, with runners on first and second, threw Don Hoak's bunt into left field. Roberto Clemente scored and Joe Christopher, running for Smokey Burgess, went to third.

Rocky Nelson batted for Haddix and stroked a single to right. Christopher scored and Hoak came in on Cal Neenan's error on the throw to the plate. Bill Virdon completed the rout with a single to center scoring Bill Baker, who ran for Nelson.

Until the uproar at the finish, Harvey Haddix and Roberts put on a stirring mound duel. The Bucs gave their little left-hander a two-run lead but the Phillies scored in the sixth and tied up the game on Ted Lepcio's second homer of the campaign in the seventh.

Tribe Triumphs, 6-2, Loses Nightcap, 6-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Roy Sievers crashed a three-run homer to cap a five-run, sixth inning rally which carried the Chicago White Sox to a 6-4 victory Sunday after the first game of a doubleheader 6-2.

The split gave the White Sox five triumphs in the six-game series with the Tribe and left them in third place, one-half game behind second-place Cleveland and three behind the league-leading New York Yankees who again lost to Boston, 9-5.

Chicago went into the bottom of the sixth trailing 4-1 when Jim Landis powered his sixth homer with one out. Pinch batter Sammy Esposito drew the ninth walk issued by starter Dick Stigman but was forced out by Luis Aparicio.

Nellie Fox walked and Stigman gave way to reliever Jim Grant. Minnie Minoso singled home a run before Sievers, who has hit safely in 16 straight games, smashed his 12th homer.

Cleveland piled up its 4-1 lead with two runs in the second on a sacrifice fly by Vic Power and a run-scoring single by Woody Held, one in the third when Tito Francona bounced out with the bases loaded and another in the sixth when Held doubled after Power had singled.

Power led the Cleveland attack in the opener with a pair of key hits. His two-out triple with a man on in the sixth lifted Cleveland into a 2-2 tie. He then put Cleveland ahead to stay in the sixth when he doubled home a run with two men out.

Tasby, Wertz Lead Attack On Yankees

Former Gets Five Hits; Vic Wallops Grand Slam Homer

BOSTON (AP) — Boston hammered New York into submission 9-5 Sunday behind the slugging of Willie Tasby and Vic Wertz to complete a three-game sweep of the American League leaders.

Tasby, fast becoming the bargain swap of the season, had a 5-for-5 day at the plate, driving in four runs on a homer, double and three singles.

Wertz matched his four RBI of Saturday by crashing a 440-foot grand slam homer to the center field bleachers off New York southpaw pitching ace Whitey Ford.

Ted Williams notched the 1,800th run-batted-in of his major league career when he grounded out in the fourth inning while Tasby scammed home from third.

Though the three losses left New York still with a firm hold on first place, they increased the exposure of the big chink in the Yankee armor—pitching.

The Red Sox jumped on 11 New York hurriers for 23 runs on 31 hits in the series.

Bill Skowron of the losers drove in four runs with two homers, his 12th and 13th of the season, and a single.

Houston Seeks K.C. Franchise

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Marty Marion and his millionaire associates Sunday entered the bidding for the Kansas City Athletics with a view to moving the franchise to Houston, Tex.

"We don't know for sure whether the Athletics are for sale to outsiders," said Marion. "but we have let it be known that if they are we want to put in a bid."

"We have only one objective—major league baseball for Houston."

Williams Is 7th Player In Majors With 1,800 RBIs

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams passed another hitting milestone with the Boston Red Sox Sunday, becoming the seventh player in major league history to bat in 1,800 runs.

The 41-year-old slugger, who last month became the fourth to hit 500 home runs, got his 1,800 RBI while grounding out in the fourth inning against New York.

The others who have batted in 1,800 or more runs were Babe Ruth (2,209), Lou Gehrig (1,991), Jimmy Foss (1,921), Ty Cobb (1,901), Mel Ott (1,860) and Al Simmons (1,827).

Hyndman's Merchants rolled to their ninth consecutive victory by beating the Farmers at Flintstone in a Pen-Mar Baseball League game yesterday to the tune of 8-3.

The win enabled the Pennsylvanians to maintain their slim lead over the Barrelville Old Exports who down the Salisbury Cardinals at Barrelville yesterday by the score of 5-2.

In other league action, Centerville's Reds whipped the Frostburg Merchants at Beall High School Field, 13-6.

Moorefield and Mt. Savage, other teams in the league, met on Saturday and the latter was returned the victor in a 7-5 battle at Mt. Savage where Bobby Dawson decided Harold Mongold.

Bob See Notches Third

Robert "Ab" See recorded his third win of the campaign as Hyndman handed Flintstone its sixth straight setback.

Cliff Clites collected two doubles, Pete Deremer and Lou Hite garnered a two-bagger and single each and Gene Stair lapped a two-run triple for the league leaders. Russ Jones of Flintstone issued five bases on balls and all figured in the Merchants' scoring. Jones struck out nine, Flintstone outbatted Hyndman, 10-7, and the Farmers' leading swatman was Jim Fletcher who collected two doubles and a single. Jim Norris obtained two hits.

See (3-2) gave way to Charley Rice in the 8th with Hyndman in front, 8-3. Bob fanned four and Rice struck out two.

Richards Is Victor

Dave Richards chalked up his seventh triumph of the campaign in pitching the Old Exports to victory over the Cardinals. He kept eight hits well spaced, yielded one run in the second and one run in the ninth and whiffed nine batters.

Clarence "Pooch" Lewis got Barrelville off to a good start by belting a two-run homer in the first inning. Leroy Morris and Bobby Munden shared six of the Old Exports' 14 hits and Jim Kline rapped a pair of safeties.

Salisbury's runs came on homers by Brown and Don Carey. Brown collected three of Salisbury's eight safeties. The loss for Carey was his fourth against as many victories. Richards' record is 7-2.

Score Seven In 8th

Centerville exploded for seven runs in the 8th inning to increase their lead from 6-5 to 13-5 and an easy win over Frostburg which was guilty of seven fielding miscues.

The Reds amassed 16 hits, including a homer by Dwight Rose, triples by Roger and Ed Growden and two-baggers by Mel Nee and Glenn Deremer. Deremer accounted for three hits. Five Frostburg players had two hits each—Ralph Peace, Fred Schindler, Gary Wolford, Donnie Lewis, Jim Rice and Dick Piko.

Glenn Deremer, Centerville's veteran "workhorse" notched his sixth win against five losses. The loss gave Ralph Peace a 2-2 record to date.

Paret And Hart Fight Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI) — Madison Square Garden's first professional fight show without television in 10 years brings together welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret and Sugar Hart Tuesday night for a non-title 10-rounder.

Each will weigh more than the 147-pound limit.

Paret of Cuba is favored at 8-5 over Hart of Philadelphia, but the Sugar Boy has been promised a shot at Paret's title on Oct. 15 if he can knock out the champion Tuesday.

Since the Madison Square Garden club does not resume its week-end television fights until Saturday, Oct. 8 and since the Democratic Convention has pre-empted this Wednesday's fight-time, there will be no video bout this week.

Paret And Hart Fight Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI) — Madison Square Garden's first professional fight show without television in 10 years brings together welterweight champion Benny "Kid" Paret and Sugar Hart Tuesday night for a non-title 10-rounder.

Each will weigh more than the 147-pound limit.

Paret of Cuba is favored at 8-5 over Hart of Philadelphia, but the Sugar Boy has been promised a shot at Paret's title on Oct. 15 if he can knock out the champion Tuesday.

Since the Madison Square Garden club does not resume its week-end television fights until Saturday, Oct. 8 and since the Democratic Convention has pre-empted this Wednesday's fight time, there will be no video bout this week.

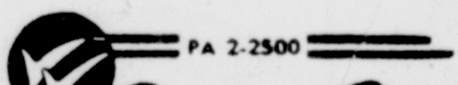

Colts To Practice

The Klondike Colts of the Twilight Baseball League will practice today at 5:30 p.m. on the Woodland diamond.

Delegates Go To Convention

The Democratic national convention which opens today at Los Angeles is being attended by a group of Allegany and Garrett County residents.

Thomas B. Finan, secretary of state, and his wife, William Walsh and his wife, and Mrs. E. I. Baumgartner, of Oakland, left by plane early Saturday from Friendship airport for the big political event.

Finan, a local attorney, is chairman of the Maryland Democratic party, and a delegate to the convention. Walsh, a member of the House of Delegates and president of the Allegany County Young Democrats, is attending the convention as a delegate in place of his father, William C. Walsh, also a local attorney.

Mrs. Baumgartner has been active in Democratic politics in Garrett County for some years. She is an alternate delegate with the Maryland group.

The Maryland delegation, headed ed by Gov. J. Millard Tawes, is committed to cast its ballots for Sen. John Kennedy until "as long as their conscientious judgment there is any possibility of his being nominated."

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Marlon Brando, some American village, and that breezed into town from Paris to village will be named in the title. He starts in August for his own Wayfarer Production in association with Miller Kaufman and for Tahiti to meet producer Aaron Ronnie Lubin.

Former President Harry Truman is expected at the Edwin Pauley party tomorrow night in Truman's honor since there has been no word to the contrary. The ex-president arrives tomorrow will be at the Ambassador Hotel. All the governors, senators, delegates and presidential candidates, but not too many Hollywood celebrities or local socialites are expected.

The Bob Hopes have accepted, but Frank Sinatra, the senator from Puccini's, hasn't been heard from, possibly because the Peter Lawford's (the Kennedy kin) are out of town and won't return until Sunday.

The Jules Steins' cocktail party preceding the Pauley soiree will have many movie stars as well as governors, senators and presidential hopefuls—and socialites too.

Here's good news for the girls. Bobby Darin sends word from Honolulu that he and Joanne Campbell have broken their engagement.

The reason, he says, is that their careers have kept them separated most of the time and the only time he really has a chance to see her is when he plays the Copacabana in New York. Both of them feel, says Bobby, marriage wouldn't work out. They're wise to discover they are unsuited before they get married.

HOLLYWOOD—Marlon Brando, some American village, and that breezed into town from Paris to village will be named in the title, day and remained just long enough to change his clothes and take a bath. Then he planned out for Tahiti to meet producer Aaron Rosenberg and consult about the cast of "Mutiny on the Bounty."

From Tahiti the much-traveled Marlon hops off for Southeast Asia to meet George Englund and scout locations for "The Ugly American." This much-discussed story will be filmed as soon as Brando finishes "Mutiny," should think with Russia and China in such a sarcastic mood, this might be rather bad propaganda for America now, picturing our ambassadors, the first one as inefficient, then a second one as not even knowing his servants were spies.

Brando hasn't yet made up his mind whether he will accept Sam Spiegel's offer to start in "Lawrence of Arabia."

Odd that a director of the range of Vincente Minnelli, who has done such musical hits as "American in Paris" and "Gigi," such family comedies as "Father of the Bride" and such dramas as "Tea and Sympathy," has never tackled a chiller-diller.

This little detail will be remedied when Vince takes on "Irresistible," a suspense drama by Sam Mainwaring and Noel Langley of such hair-raising suspense it would delight the heart of Alfred Hitchcock. He'll get it rolling after "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" (his next) and Irwin Shaw's "Two Weeks in Another Town." With MM announcing 15 movies starting in the next six months with a budget of $30,000,000—these three are Minnelli's agenda for the year.

Burl Ives, who is just back from New York, was on the Allied Artists lot to discuss "The Pied Piper of Hamelin." The reason for the blank is that Burl isn't using the title "Pied Piper of Hamelin." He wants to make a modern version of Robert Browning's immortal poem. He says it will have a strictly American flavor and he'll sing all his favorite folk songs, charm all the children of

Secrets Of Charm

Spice your conversation with Anglicized words from foreign languages.

Tour The World With Language

If you're planning to tour the Continent this fall by armchair, (and I know armchair travelers who actually know more about distant shores than people who have been there) a good way to go is via a foreign language class. That way you can take a trip every evening and be home in time for bed.

Perhaps time or facilities rule out this possibility for you. In that case, why not take a trip in English? Has it ever occurred to you just how many words you use daily that are borrowed from another tongue? Do you stumble over the pronunciations of foreign words or phrases we use in English? Just for fun and information, try your tongue on this partial list.

From the French we have borrowed: Chic, rouge, hors d'oeuvre, table d'hôte, beige, petit point, bouquet, canapés, coiffure, rachel, detour, faux pas, pinion, piquant, pique.

From Spanish and Italian: Plaza, Don Juan, Los Angeles, rodeo, adobe, padre, piazza, piano, sotto voce, bravo... and can you pronounce Jose?

Some of these words we've given a slightly anglicized pronunciation, but here are your answers. To be sure of your pronunciation, take your dictionary along as a guide!

From the French: (chic) Sheek, (rouge) roozh, (hors d'oeuvre) or du vr, (table d'hôte) tabble doht, (beige) bayzh, (petit point) pehti pwan, (bouquet) bookay, (canapés) ka-na-pay, (coiffure) kwahfeyr, (rachel) ray-shel, (detour) de-tour, (faux pas) foe-pah, (pinion) pinyun, (piquant) pe-kant, (pique) pekay.

From Spanish and Italian: Plaza, San hwan, Los Ang-ge-lez, (rodeo) ro-de-yo or ro-day-o, (adobe) ah-doh-bi, (padre) pah-dre, (piazza) pyatzah or pe-ah-za, (piano) pe-ah-no, (bravo) brah-vo, (Jose) Hozay.

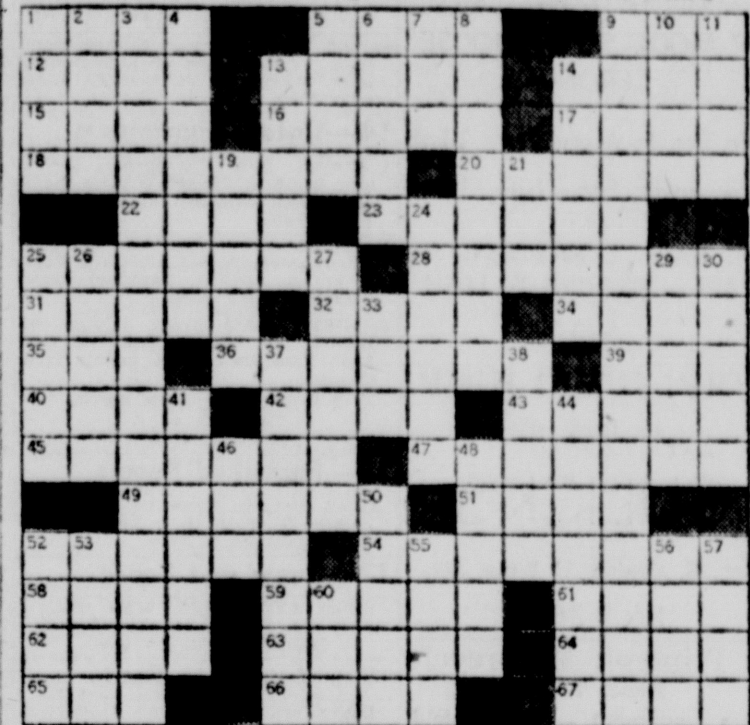

Bon voyage! Or should I say bohn vo-yazh!

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ 1 7 5 2 ♥ 8 5 3 ♦ 9 5 4 ♣ 10

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♣	Pass	?	?

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. Surely game is out of the question. If you bid again, even the most tolerant partner will look for more than a queen and two jacks in your hand.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠ K 7 ♥ K Q 7 6 ♦ A J 2 ♣ 6 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	?	?

What do you bid now?

A—Seven hearts, unless there is some doubt in your mind as to partner's trustworthiness. His bidding is practical by the most colossal known to man. Your previous bids would have been justified without the king of spades. Partner is willing to predict that you can win 12 tricks on the basis merely of your hearts and diamonds. Surely he must have allowed for the loss of a trick to the king of spades, and on that basis your grand slam bid is justified.

Q. 3—Partner opens with three no trump. You hold:

♠ A 5 ♥ 7 6 5 ♦ Q 10 9 4 ♣ K 10 7 5

What do you bid?

A—On a basis of simple arithmetic you should contact for a small slam in no trump. You have a count of nine and partner has a minimum of 25. The combined assets of 34 are sufficient to assure a very good play for a small slam.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ K Q 7 ♥ K 3 2 ♦ A K ♣ K 8 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♣	Pass	?	?

What do you bid now?

A—There is not much doubt of a slam in the hand. But in order to determine the best contract, there must be some further investigation. The recommended bid at this point is a jump shift to three diamonds, and the subsequent actions will depend on partner's behavior.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ A K 7 6 4 2 ♥ K 7 ♦ A J 9 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	?	?

What do you bid now?

A—Kew, world's largest plant, grows higher than the giant redwood trees of California to reach from the ocean floor to the surface.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Oh, I forgot to tell you. You lent me $20 this morning."

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a young woman who is ripping born on the other side and they speak their native language at home.

In these days of high standards, high wages and high everything else, couldn't someone be around to inspect garments to make sure the knots are tied?

I bought a pair of Bermuda shorts to wear to a very special Bermuda party. They cost me $7.98 which is not cheap. I didn't expect them to be Paris originals, but neither did I expect the center seam to rip from top to bottom the first time I bent down to tie my shoe.

This calamity occurred at the party, in the presence of ten couples. What has happened to the pride of workmanship? Where are the people who used to get satisfaction out of doing a good job? It burns me up the way skilled laborers just put in their time and say to heck with the product!

Please print this as a warning to other girls who may be placing too much confidence in their seams. It seems to me that seams ain't what they used to be. — EXPOSED IN HOLLYWOOD

DEAR EXPOSED: I'm not defending the garment industry but it is a habit of mine to view the problem from as many angles as possible.

You give no clue as to your dimensions, the size of the shorts, or the amount of confidence you placed on that center seam. Even the most flawless workmanship will take just so much.

The best insurance against an encore is to buy shorts a size larger.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A girl who works in our office had a birthday yesterday. Her boyfriend sent two dozen roses.

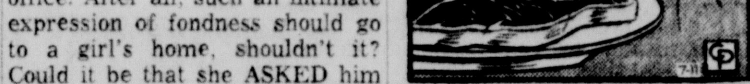

She made a big show of trying to find a vase "big enough." The giggling, swooning and screeching all over the place was unbearable. In general it was a showoff act to end all performances.

We feel it was in bad taste for the fellow to send flowers to the office. After all, such an intimate expression of fondness should go to a girl's home, shouldn't it? Could it be that she ASKED him to send the flowers to her place of employment? What do you think? — NAUSEATED COLLEAGUES

DEAR NAUSEATED COLLEAGUES: Gert Stein and I agree that a rose is a rose is a rose. I see nothing wrong in sending flowers to an office. It probably gave the gal an extra thrill — which was his intention.

(P.S. Your claws are showing, girls.)

DEAR ANN: I am going with a boy who will be a senior in high school next fall. He has so many good qualities I could take up the whole paper listing them. The trouble is my older sisters make fun of him because they say he talks like he came from

Q. 1—As South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass

What do you bid now?
A—Pass. Surely game is out of the question. If you bid again, even the most tolerant partner will grow for more than a queen and two jacks in your hand.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ K 7 ♥ K Q ♦ 7 6 ♠ J 2 ♣ 6 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	6 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?
A—Seven hearts, unless there is some doubt in your mind as to partner's trustworthiness. His bidding is practical, by the most common known to man. Your previous bids would have been justified without the king of spades. Partner is willing to predict that you can win 12 tricks on the basis merely of your hearts and diamonds. The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass

What do you bid now?
A—There is not much doubt of a slam in the hand. But in order to determine the best contract, there must be some further investigation. The recommended bid at this point is a jump shift to three diamonds, and the subsequent actions will depend on partner's behavior.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠ 2 ♥ A K 7 6 4 2 ♦ K 7 ♠ A J 9 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Five diamonds to show possession of the king of that suit. You have already made up your mind to bid at least six hearts, and there can be no harm in showing this feature of your hand. It may enable partner to go the limit after full exploration of the resources.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ A J 10 8 7 5 ♦ A 9 5 2 ♠ K Q ♥ South West North East

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Had you not previously passed, the proper procedure would be a jump to three hearts, forcing to game. But in view of your previous failure to bid, partner might not go on. Your hand is worth 14 points in support, so even if North has a shaded bid you should have enough. Bid four hearts.

Q. 7—As South you hold (vulnerable):
♠ 4 ♥ 8 5 4 ♦ Q 10 8 7 5 ♠ A 6 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

What do you bid?

A—East has announced a game going hand. While you might desire to interrupt communications between the opponents, you cannot afford to go very high because it might prove costly should they abandon their game and double you instead. However, partner should be advised that you have diamond support and some high card value. You may do this by doubling the two diamond bid, and leaving the rest to him.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ K 7 5 4 2 ♥ 10 9 8 6 5 4 ♠ A 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Double
R double	Pass	Pass	2 ♠
3 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

What do you bid now?
A—Despite the fact that you have not an ace and king, this hand has enormous potentialities. Your partner not only has opened the bidding and redoubled. He combined these moves with a jump. If his hand does not contain too many spade losers, a slam should be easily obtainable. To indicate your slam interest, you should make a cue bid of four diamonds and await developments.

If you are interested in this boy, tell him gently (in private, natch.) and help him with the words that give him trouble. You'd be doing him an enormous favor.

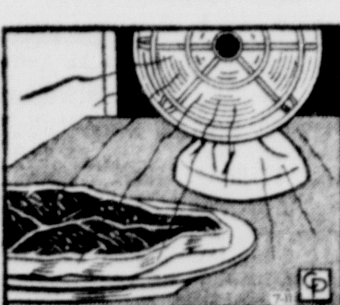

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL READERS WHO WROTE TO TELL ME THAT I GOOFED: Josie is not related to the boozier. You are right right right, and I don't know how I got so far off the genetic base. I've had so many letters and charts from all over the U.S.A. that I'm ready to admit I'm a monkey's uncle.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

In Memoriam

In loving memory of John Spinnetta,
who passed away July 11, 1960.
Many a day his name is spoken,
And many hours he is in our thoughts.
A link of our family chain is broken.
He has gone from home—but not from our hearts.

Nearly missed by

PTA Congress Meeting Opens In Frostburg

Board Of Managers Hold Conference

The legislative program, plans for the state convention in November at Baltimore, and committee activities were discussed yesterday during the pre-conference meeting of the Board of Managers of the Maryland Congress of Parents-Teachers which met in Thomas G. Pullen School of Frostburg State Teachers College.

The meeting preceded the two-day summer conference of the association today and tomorrow on the college campus.

Registration for the board of managers took place early in the afternoon and the meeting was held later. A vesper service was conducted in the United Church of Christ with Rev. George Wehler reading the Scripture and Rev. Robert Current, First Methodist Church, conducting the devotions.

Corsages Presented

During a dinner held in the dining hall of the church, Mrs. George Buckalew, general chairman of the conference, presented corsages to Mrs. Cecil E. Ewing, president, of Elkton, and to Miss Helen Clark, chairman of library service of MCPTA who is retiring this year.

Last night the board of managers met again in Pullen auditorium and local presidents and delegates met with Mrs. Richard Barth, budget chairman.

Three Western Maryland county superintendents of schools will speak this morning on "PTA and Education in The Next Decade."

They are Dr. William Brish, Washington County; Willard Hawkins, Garrett County; and Ralph R. Webster, Allegany County. The speaking sessions begin at 10 a.m.

Six Workshops

The six workshops and their leaders are audio-visual, Mrs. Louis Walker of Washington and Miss Helen M. Clark of Baltimore; councils, Dr. Margaret Conant of Glenn Dale; legislation, Mrs. Fred L. Bull of Baltimore; policies and procedures, Bruce Bowman of Greenbelt; programming, Mrs. A. K. Roser, of Clarksville, and public relations, Mrs. John D. Loizeaux of Baltimore.

Today's activities will include general registration for all delegates beginning at 9 a.m. in Compton Hall Library. A song period will be held preceding the general meeting in the auditorium and will be led by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moreland, city.

At 10 a.m. the first session will begin with the invocation, pledge of allegiance and presentation of platform guests and MCPTA officers.

Section Meetings

The afternoon session will be devoted to section meetings headed by the various committee chairmen.

The theme of the meeting is "Learn, Then Lead." It's purpose is to acquaint parents and teachers with the fundamental problems and functions of the PTA and to help new officers and chairmen strengthen their respective units.

Mrs. George Buckalew of Frostburg is general chairman and Mrs. Joseph Tillou of Silver Spring is program chairman. Mrs. Cecil E. Ewing of Elkton, state president, will preside. About 300 representatives of the association are expected to attend.

Fort Cumberland Homes Progresses

This is one of the 12 new buildings in the Fort Cumberland Homes public housing project now nearing completion in an area bounded by Thomas Street, Oldtown Road and Virginia Avenue. The third low-rent public housing project here will have 80 units. The work, started last December, is being done by the George Construction Company under a $975,375 contract. This contract also includes a new administration building at Jane Frazier Village, the first of the three public housing projects here. The contract calls for completion in 300 calendar days.

Md. Court Houses Have Long, Colorful History

By ALBERT D. DARRY
News Staff Writer

The colorful and sometimes confusing history of the county court houses of Maryland is explained in considerable detail in a 175-page book by Morris L. Radoff, state archivist and records administrator.

Local Church Plans Annual Bible School

First Christian Church will hold its annual vacation Bible school from July 18 to July 29, according to Rev. Ralph Burnette, pastor.

Rev. Mr. Burnette said classes will be held daily Monday through Friday from 9:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. The theme for the school is "Teachings of Jesus."

Mrs. Lillian Hannas will be director of the school with Rev. Mr. Burnette as co-director.

They will be assisted by Nelson Gilford, Mrs. Helen Horeway, Mrs. Georgetta Gilford, Gary O'Neal, Miss Wanda Perdue, Mrs. Alice Boyer and Mrs. Carl Jenkins.

The school is for children from three to 16 years of age.

Miss Rosella Gibson and Miss Dixie Digman will be in charge of the nursery and Mrs. Ethel Walker will have charge of the beginners department. She will be assisted by Mrs. Delmer Cowgill and Mrs. Gladys Powers.

The primary department will be in charge of Mrs. Thelma Brill. She will be assisted by Mrs. Lillian Gilford and Mrs. Alice May. Mrs. Mary Burnette will have charge of the junior department and will be aided by Mrs. Shirley Bishop and Miss Janet Bennett.

Mrs. Georgetta Gilford will have charge of the intermediate department, assisted by Mrs. William Elfritz and Mrs. Shirley Wilhelm.

The teen-age department will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Burnette, with Miss Virginia Rowe and Mrs. Mary Cornette assisting.

The closing program of the school will be held Sunday, July 31 at 7:30 p. m. Transportation will be provided each day to and from the school for those who desire it.

Fort Cumberland Post To Meet Tuesday

Final plans for the department convention to be held July 20-23 in Baltimore will be made when Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, meets at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the post home.

A report on the district meeting held yesterday in Oakland also will be received. Albert Kerns is the new post commander.

Woman Fatally Stricken While Riding In Car

A Dayton, Ohio woman was pronounced dead on arrival yesterday afternoon at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, after being stricken ill in a car on U. S. Route 40.

The woman, Mrs. Frances A. Burdridge, 52, wife of Charles Burdridge, 3900 Cone Court, Dayton, was a passenger in a car operated by her daughter, Mrs. Madeline Miller, also of Dayton. Mrs. Miller said her mother was stricken near the town limits of Frostburg, and was dead when she reached the hospital.

The two women were on their way to Washington to visit Mrs. Burdridge's son, Charles Burdridge Jr.

The body is at the Durs Funeral Home, Frostburg, and will be returned to Dayton.

LaVale Will Crown Queen

Highlighting the opening of the weeklong festival of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company tonight will be the crowning of the Fire Queen at 9 o'clock on a stage erected on the festival grounds.

John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, will crown the queen whose identity will not be revealed until the time of the crowning.

In the event of inclement weather the crowning ceremonies will be held indoors at the fire hall. Wednesday will be children's contest night and several events are lined up for the youngsters.

West Virginia Brave Youth Being Sought

Don Crislip, West Virginia's industrial and publicity commissioner, is still looking for a brave youth from his State.

Mr. Crislip is chairman of a state committee to choose West Virginia's entrant in the competition for national 1959 medals for bravery. Last Thursday was to have been the deadline for recommendations but the chairman did not get any. Now he has extended the deadline to July 14.

To qualify, the act of bravery must have been performed in 1959 by a boy or girl who had not yet reached his or her 19th birthday.

J. E. McKenzie Commander Of Mt. District

Jonas E. McKenzie, Grantsville Post 214, American Legion, yesterday afternoon was elected commander of the Mountain District during a meeting held at the home of Proctor-Kildow Post 71 in Oakland.

Elected commander of Allegany County was James McNeil of Farrady Post 24, Frostburg. Ward L. Ashby of the Oakland Post was named commander of Garrett County.

Department of Maryland executive committeemen from the district are Vincent P. Lafayette and Lonnie Marsh of Victory Post 155, Westernport; Philmore Fleming and Russell C. Paup, Fort Cumberland Post 13, city; and Charles C. Bender, Grantsville.

John L. Sloan, of Baltimore, a member of Post 13 and Frank Powers, a member of Farrady Post 24, were named delegates to the national American Legion convention scheduled in September at Miami.

Alternates are Philmore Fleming and Lonnie Marsh. The delegates are subject to ratification by the Department during the convention in Baltimore July 20-23.

Fred H. Anderson, past commander of Fort Cumberland Post 13, was endorsed for department judge advocate, subject to ratification by the department at the convention.

Charles E. Griffith of Fort Cumberland Post 13 presided at yesterday's meeting in Oakland.

Lay Readers Conduct Emmanuel Services

Now that Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, is on his vacation, laymen of the parish are conducting the Sunday morning worship.

William Torkington conducted the service of morning prayer at both the 8 and 11 o'clock services. On both occasions, James Alfred Avirett read a sermon which had been preached previously by an Episcopal clergyman.

Next Sunday, Robert Little Ebert will conduct the morning prayer service and William L. Wilson will read the sermon. This lay schedule will continue through Sunday, July 31.

Pro-Kennedy Tide Gathers Md. Support

Delegates To Caucus Before Each Ballot

By LOUIS G. PANOS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The pro-Kennedy tide Sunday night swept up a few more members of the Maryland delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

"It looks like a first ballot victory for Kennedy," said George Hocker, close adviser to Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Hocker, like Tawes, had never publicly endorsed Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

But, also like the governor, he had privately expressed regret that it appeared difficult for the delegation to escape its legal commitment to support Kennedy in the early balloting because of his primary victory in Maryland.

Hocker and Tawes both had indicated a personal inclination to Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) or if his bid failed, to Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.).

Tawes, head of the 24-vote delegation, was characteristically cautious after his arrival on an afternoon flight with the last batch of Maryland delegates.

He said there was no change in plans for caucuses before every ballot but acknowledged, "the way it's shaping up, there may not be a second ballot."

The governor had asked Kennedy to stay out of the primary, refused to challenge him when Kennedy insisted on bucking him, and finally gave him a lukewarm endorsement against Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.).

But less reluctant Kennedy supporters among the Marylanders were quietly confident on the eve of the convention.

Former Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro and City Council President Philip H. Goodman lost no time getting to Kennedy headquarters in the Hotel Baltimore, convention headquarters. They assured Robert Kennedy, the candidate's brother and campaign manager, that Maryland will stick with the Massachusetts entry.

Asked about a possible switch to Symington, D'Alessandro shook his head as he emerged from the Kennedy conference.

"Not now," he declared. State Party Chairman Thomas B. Finan, another leading Kennedy backer and gubernatorial lieutenant, met with Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington at breakfast.

"He says he wants to be vice president and Kennedy is favorable toward him," Finan told Tawes in a conference to fill in the governor on the day's developments.

Johnson had barely arrived at convention headquarters before Maryland Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein was invited to visit him in his seventh-floor room.

Goldstein, eager to dispel any impression that he was supporting Johnson, was back in the hall less than two minutes later.

"I just came up to shake hands with the man and say Hello," he smiled.

Educator Gets McCullough Post

Gerald E. Richter, Carroll County high school supervisor, will succeed Dr. Raymond O. McCullough as the new superintendent of schools in Talbot County on the Eastern Shore.

Dr. McCullough, who formerly served as principal of Allegany High School, has resigned to join the faculty of Frostburg State Teachers College. Dr. McCullough is a native of Friendsville in Garrett County and taught at Fort Hill High School here before becoming principal of old Central High School in Lonaconing.

Local Sailor Still Missing, Listed Dead

Navy Pushes Search For Airship Victims

LAKEHURST, N. J. (AP)—Increasing winds and rough seas hindered salvage operations Sunday after the Navy set at 18 the official death toll in the wreck of the world's largest blimp.

The Navy continued its round-the-clock efforts to locate bodies in the submerged wreckage but found no more.

Authorities said Saturday that the airship's 13 missing men had been declared officially dead. Five bodies were found. Three men survived the Atlantic Ocean crash Wednesday.

Among those missing are A.M. S.2 Frederick A. Furney of Gettysburg, Pa., and A. T. 1 Frank J. Rosley, formerly of Cumberland, Md.

The Navy said it would keep trying to recover the missing bodies before raising the gondola and shattered gas bag from the ocean floor. A spokesman said it would take two days to bring the tangled mass to the surface.

A board of inquiry investigating the fatal plunge turned its attention to one of the 403-foot airship's regulating air sacks, called a ballonnet. The ballonnet regulates helium pressure which affects the ship's movement.

There was speculation that the air ballonnet may have burst, causing a fatal nose dive.

Tree Farmers To Get Awards At Dedication

A group of newly certified tree farms in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania will be formally dedicated Friday in Preston County near Terra Alta, W. Va.

Approximately 15 woodland owners will receive signs and certificates of membership in the American Tree Farm System as an award for their practice of active forest management for timber conservation and continuous production of wood crops.

The Maryland awards will be made by David W. Sowers Jr. of Hancock, research forester for West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and chairman of the Maryland Tree Farm Committee.

The American Tree Farm System is a nationwide program sponsored by forest industries through their association, American Forest Products Industries, Inc., to encourage good forestry practices on privately owned woodlands.

The general public, especially woodland owners, is invited to attend the ceremony which will begin at 1:30 p. m. on the tree farm of Elmer C. Grimm, which is located off West Virginia Route 7, 10 miles east of Terra Alta near Grellin.

John B. Veach, North Carolina conservationist and timberman, will speak on "America's Woodland Owners Accept a Challenge" at the ceremony.

H. P. Berthy, West Virginia extension forester of Morgantown, W. Va., will be master of ceremonies of the program which also will include a talk by James C. McClellan of Washington, D. C., chief forester for AFPI.

The Pennsylvania Tree Farm awards will be presented by D. E. Hess of Gettysburg, past chairman and current member of that state's tree farm committee. M. J. Vorchab of Romney, W. Va., chairman of his state's tree farm committee, will present West Virginia awards.

Firemen May Buy Surplus Commodities

Association Gets CD Notification

The Maryland Civil Defense organization notified firemen of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association that they will be able to purchase surplus property at the College Park and Jessups stations.

Such property may be picked up on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday each week and must be approved by William Chenoweth of Pikesville, past president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association who has been named coordinator of the program between the CD and firemen.

Each member company of the two-county association has a card entitling it to purchase the property, and the card must be presented at the time the property is sought.

When the two-county association met yesterday at the McCool fire hall, the volunteer firemen of the association requested that the association meet in that community in 1962 the year when the 150th anniversary of Frostburg will be celebrated.

State Convention Sought

The Frostburg volunteers also discussed the possibility of having the Maryland State Firemen's convention held in that community sometime in the future. The company lost next year's convention by 66 votes.

Other business was discussed at the meeting attended by representatives of 19 of the volunteer companies of the two counties and presided over by Ivan Wilson of Midland.

Home Ambrose, secretary-treasurer of the association's insurance committee pointed out that the insurance policy covering firemen injured in accidents during fires or training will expire on August 26. A future meeting will be held to discuss the matter.

Cromwell Zembower, chairman of the fire prevention committee of the association, said the committee is working out plans for a display on fire prevention which will be on exhibit at the Allegany and Garrett county fairs this summer.

Training Schedule

Training committees of the two-county association were requested to write to Robert Byrnes, College Park, for information on training classes which begin in the fall. Dates will be set up. Last year 100 courses were held in Maryland.

David E. Kirk asked that donations for the Bessie Marshall Hospital Fund be sent to Mrs. Marshall at 14 South Main Street, Reisterstown. This fund was set up for those firemen who require assistance when hospitalized. It is sponsored by the ladies auxiliary.

Ten past presidents attended yesterday's meeting which was concluded by a chicken dinner served by the auxiliary members of the host company.

The next meeting of the two-county association will be held at 2 p.m. August 7 in the Midland fire hall.

Magazine Features Home Of Former Area Woman

A former Lonaconing woman who now resides in Baltimore was featured recently in a Baltimore newspaper because she and her husband dared to be different.

Mrs. Grace (Dick) Gosnell and her husband, Wilfred C. Gosnell, were the subject of a pictorial article in a magazine section of a Baltimore paper after they converted their row house to a ranch-style house.

Mrs. Gosnell, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Dick, Lonaconing, and her husband recently decided to remodel their home to combine city living with a suburban type house.

The Gosnells began their project by first consulting their next-door neighbors, since all the houses in the row along Kimble Road were constructed alike.

The project started with the removal of the back porch and in its place appeared a bright, all-purpose family room. Sliding glass doors separate the dining room from the new addition, the rear wall of which is a picture window.

The new room's walls are covered with Honduras mahogany and the ceiling is constructed of etched weldwood marked by exposed beams.

Mrs. Gosnell, who also is the sister of J. Milton Dick, McMullen Highway, is a graduate of Maryland School of Nursing and served during World War II.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gosnell were lieutenant colonels during World War II. Mrs. Gosnell served in the Pacific and her husband served in the European theatre where he was awarded the Crown of Italy for his relief work in behalf of Italian Catholics.

Destroyed By Fire

This court house, which was considered a fine structure, was destroyed by fire on January 5, 1893. That was the same year in which the Worcester County court house at Snow Hill on the Eastern Shore also was burned. Cornerstone laying for the present court house occurred on October 5, 1893. Finan Gets First Flag

Thomas B. Finan, right, Cumberland attorney and Maryland's Secretary of State, receives the first 50-star American flag to be flown officially anywhere in the world from U. S. Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton in a July 4 ceremony at Fort McHenry in Baltimore. The flag-raising ceremony took place at one minute after midnight on the morning of the Fourth. Secretary Seaton presided at the festivities because his Department of the Interior includes the National Park Service, which administers the fort. The defense of the fort in 1814 inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star-Spangled Banner."

PTA Congress Meeting Opens In Frostburg

Board Of Managers Hold Conference

The legislative program, plans for the state convention in November at Baltimore, and committee activities were discussed yesterday during the pre-conference meeting of the Board of Managers of the Maryland Congress of Parents-Teachers which met in Thomas G. Pullen School of Frostburg State Teachers College.

The meeting preceded the two-day summer conference of the association today and tomorrow on the college campus.

Registration for the board of managers took place early in the afternoon and the meeting was held later. A vesper service was conducted in the United Church of Christ with Rev. George Wehler reading the Scripture and Rev. Robert Current, First Methodist Church, conducting the devotions.

Corsages Presented

During a dinner held in the dining hall of the church, Mrs. George Buckalew, general chairman of the conference, presented corsages to Mrs. Cecil E. Ewing, president, of Elkton, and to Miss Helen Clark, chairman of library service of MCPTA who is retiring this year.

Last night the board of managers met again in Pullen auditorium and local presidents and delegates met with Mrs. Richard Barth, budget chairman.

Three Western Maryland county superintendents of schools will speak this morning on "PTA and Education in The Next Decade." They are Dr. William Brish, Washington County; Willard Hawkins, Garrett County; and Ralph R. Webster, Allegany County. The speaking sessions begin at 10 a.m.

Six Workshops

The six workshops and their leaders are audio-visual, Mrs. Louis Walker of Washington and Miss Helen M. Clark of Baltimore; councils, Dr. Margaret Conant of Glenn Dale; legislation, Mrs. Fred L. Bull of Baltimore; policies and procedures, Bruce Bowman of Greenbelt; programming, Mrs. A. K. Romoser, of Clarksville, and public relations, Mrs. John D. Loizeaux of Baltimore.

Today's activities will include general registration for all delegates beginning at 9 a.m. in Compton Hall Library. A song period will be held preceding the general meeting in the auditorium and will be led by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moreland, city.

At 10 a.m. the first session will begin with the invocation, pledge of allegiance and presentation of platform guests and MCPTA officers.

Section Meetings

The afternoon session will be devoted to section meetings headed by the various committee chairmen.

The theme of the meeting is "Learn, Then Lead." Its purpose is to acquaint parents and teachers with the fundamental problems and functions of the PTA and to help new officers and chairmen strengthen their respective units.

Mrs. George Buckalew of Frostburg is general chairman and Mrs. Joseph Tillou of Silver Spring is program chairman. Mrs. Cecil E. Ewing of Elkton, state president, will preside. About 300 representatives of the association are expected to attend.

Lay Readers Conduct Emmanuel Services

Now that Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, is on his vacation, laymen of the parish are conducting the Sunday morning worship.

William Torkington conducted the service of morning prayer at both the 8 and 11 o'clock services. On both occasions, James Alfred Avirett read a sermon which had been preached previously by an Episcopal clergyman.

Next Sunday, Robert Little Ebert will conduct the morning prayer service and William L. Wilson will read the sermon. This lay schedule will continue through Sunday, July 31.

Pro-Kennedy Tide Gathers Md. Support

Delegates To Caucus Before Each Ballot

By LOUIS G. PANOS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The pro-Kennedy tide Sunday night swept up a few more members of the Maryland delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

"It looks like a first ballot victory for Kennedy," said George Hocker, close adviser to Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Hocker, like Tawes, had never publicly endorsed Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

But, also like the governor, he had privately expressed regret that it appeared difficult for the delegation to escape its legal commitment to support Kennedy in the early balloting because of his primary victory in Maryland.

Hocker and Tawes both had indicated a personal inclination to Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) or, if his bid failed, to Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.).

Tawes, head of the 24-vote delegation, was characteristically cautious after his arrival on an afternoon flight with the last batch of Maryland delegates.

He said there was no change in plans for caucuses before every ballot but acknowledged "the way it's shaping up, there may not be a second ballot."

The governor had asked Kennedy to stay out of the primary, refused to challenge him when Kennedy insisted on backing him, and finally gave him a lukewarm endorsement against Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.).

But less reluctant Kennedy supporters among the Marylanders were quietly confident on the eve of the convention.

Former Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro and City Council President Philip H. Goodman lost no time getting to Kennedy headquarters in the Hotel Biltmore, convention headquarters. They assured Robert Kennedy, the candidate's brother and campaign manager, that Maryland will stick with the Massachusetts entry.

Asked about a possible switch to Symington, D'Alessandro shook his head as he emerged from the Kennedy conference.

"Not now," he declared. State Party Chairman Thomas B. Finan, another leading Kennedy backer and gubernatorial lieutenant, met with Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington at breakfast.

"He says he wants to be vice president and Kennedy is favorable toward him," Finan told Tawes in a conference to fill in the governor on the day's developments.

Johnson had barely arrived at convention headquarters before Maryland Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein was invited to visit him in his seventh-floor room.

Goldstein, eager to dispel any impression that he was supporting Johnson, was back in the hall less than two minutes later.

"I just came up to shake hands with the man and say Hello," he smiled.

Educator Gets McCullough Post

Gerald E. Richter, Carroll County high school supervisor, will succeed Dr. Raymond O. McCullough as the new superintendent of schools in Talbot County on the Eastern Shore.

Dr. McCullough, who formerly served as principal of Allegany High School, has resigned to join the faculty of Frostburg State Teachers College. Dr. McCullough is a native of Friendsville in Garrett County and taught at Fort Hill High School here before becoming principal of old Central High School in Lonaconing.

Local Sailor Still Missing, Listed Dead

Navy Pushes Search For Airship Victims

LAKEHURST, N. J. (AP)—Increasing winds and rough seas hindered salvage operations Sunday after the Navy set at 18 the official death toll in the wreck of the world's largest blimp.

The Navy continued its round-the-clock efforts to locate bodies in the submerged wreckage but found no more.

Authorities said Saturday that the airship's 13 missing men had been declared officially dead. Five bodies were found. Three men survived the Atlantic Ocean crash Wednesday.

Among those missing are A.M. S.2 Frederick A. Furney of Gettysburg, Pa., and A. T. 1 Frank J. Rosley, formerly of Cumberland, Md.

The Navy said it would keep trying to recover the missing bodies before raising the gondola and shattered gas bag from the ocean floor. A spokesman said it would take two days to bring the tangled mass to the surface.

A board of inquiry investigating the fatal plunge turned its attention to one of the 403-foot airship's regulating air sacks, called a ballonnet. The ballonnet regulates helium pressure which affects the ship's movement.

There was speculation that the air ballonnet may have burst, causing a fatal nose dive.

Tree Farmers To Get Awards At Dedication

A group of newly certified tree farms in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania will be formally dedicated Friday in Preston County near Terra Alta, W. Va.

Approximately 15 woodland owners will receive signs and certificates of membership in the American Tree Farm System as an award for their practice of active forest management for timber conservation and continuous production of wood crops.

The Maryland awards will be made by David W. Sowers Jr. of Hancock, research forester for West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and chairman of the Maryland Tree Farm Committee.

The American Tree Farm System is a nationwide program sponsored by forest industries through their association, American Forest Products Industries, Inc., to encourage good forestry practices on privately owned woodlands.

The general public, especially woodland owners, is invited to attend the ceremony which will begin at 1:30 p. m. on the tree farm of Elmer C. Grimm, which is located off West Virginia Route 7, 10 miles east of Terra Alta near Crellin.

John B. Veach, North Carolina conservationist and timberman, will speak on "America's Woodland Owners Accept a Challenge" at the ceremony.

H. P. Berthy, West Virginia extension forester of Morgantown, W. Va., will be master of ceremonies of the program which also will include a talk by James C. McClellan of Washington, D. C., chief forester for AFPI.

The Pennsylvania Tree Farm awards will be presented by D. E. Hess of Gettysburg, past chairman and current member of that state's tree farm committee. M. J. Vorbach of Romney, W. Va., chairman of his state's tree farm committee, will present West Virginia awards.

Firemen May Buy Surplus Commodities

Association Gets CD Notification

The Maryland Civil Defense organization notified firemen of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association that they will be able to purchase surplus property at the College Park and Jessups stations.

Such property may be picked up on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday each week and must be approved by William Chenoweth of Pikesville, past president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association who has been named coordinator of the program between the CD and firemen.

Each member company of the two-county association has a card entitling it to purchase the property, and the card must be presented at the time the property is sought.

When the two-county association met yesterday at the McCool fire hall, the volunteer firemen of Frostburg requested that the association meet in that community in 1962 the year when the 150th anniversary of Frostburg will be celebrated.

State Convention Sought

The Frostburg volunteers also discussed the possibility of having the Maryland State Firemen's convention held in that community sometime in the future. The company last next year's convention by 66 votes.

Other business was discussed at the meeting attended by representatives of 19 of the volunteer companies of the two counties and presided over by Ivan Wilson of Midland.

Homers Ambrose, secretary-treasurer of the association's insurance committee pointed out that the insurance policy covering firemen injured in accidents during fires or training will expire on August 26. A future meeting will be held to discuss the matter.

Matthew Zembower, chairman of the fire prevention committee of the association, said the committee is working out plans for a display on fire prevention which will be on exhibit at the Allegany and Garrett county fairs this summer.

Training Schedule

Training committees of the two-county association were requested to write to Robert Byrus, College Park, for information on training classes which begin in the fall. Dates will be set up. Last year 100 courses were held in Maryland.

David E. Kirk asked that donations for the Bessie Marsh Hospital Fund be sent to Mrs. Marshall at 14 South Main Street, Reisterstown. This fund was set up for those firemen who require assistance when hospitalized. It is sponsored by the ladies auxiliary.

Ten past presidents attended yesterday's meeting which was concluded by a chicken dinner served by the auxiliary members of the host company.

The next meeting of the two-county association will be held at 2 p. m. August 7 in the Midland fire hall.

Finan Gets First Flag

Thomas B. Finan, right, Cumberland attorney and Maryland's Secretary of State, receives the first 50-star American flag to be flown officially anywhere in the world from U. S. Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton in a July 4 ceremony at Fort McHenry in Baltimore. The flag-raising ceremony took place at one minute after midnight on the morning of the Fourth. Secretary Seaton presided at the festivities because his Department of the Interior includes the National Park Service, which administers the fort. The defense of the fort in 1814 inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star-Spangled Banner."
